Body in WCH residence

County man found slain

By GEOFF MAVIS

A Fayette County man was found dead Sunday evening in a home on High Street, the apparent victim of a homicide, according to Washington C.H. police officers.

Raymond C. Reed, of 7048 Stafford Road, suffered gunshot wounds to the chest and abdomen, in addition to wounds on the side and back of his head, according to Fayette County Deputy Coroner Robert Heiny.

Reed, who had been staying with his brother Francis at the latter's residence on 642 High Street was found dead in the home by police officers who had been summoned there on an ill person report. The individual who called to report the incident was not identified.

Dr. Heiny arrived shortly after the police, and Reed was pronounced dead at approximately 10:30 p.m. Sunday, although the shooting occurred much earlier.

Police stayed on the scene until early Monday morning, questioning neighbors, and conducting an investigation throughout the home. According to area residents, Reed's brother Francis arrived at the home around midnight, unaware of what had taken place. He later informed neighbors that he would spend the night at an aunt's home.

A truck neighbors say belonged to the deceased was parked in front of the High Street residence.

The body of the 42-year-old county man was reportedly found in the living room of the house but police officers did not comment on whether or not the suspected murder weapon had been found.

The police are working on a number of leads at this time, and more detailed information may be available pending an autopsy report from the Hamilton County Coroner's office. Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification are assisting in the investigation.

Reed was employed at the Barnhart's Service Station as an office and credit manager for the past three and a half years. He had been a member of the armed services, and previous to his employment at Barnhart's, worked as an insurance agent.

The home on 642 High Street has been sealed off by police officers, and a no trespassing sign has been erected on the premises.

DEATH SCENE — Washington C.H. police officers found the body of Raymond C. Reed at this house on High Street Sunday night. Reed, a victim of several gunshot wounds, was living with his brother, Francis, at the residence. A sign on the door warns persons not to enter while police investigate the apparent homicide. The truck in front of the house was owned by the victim.

Probe Callaway bribe report

DENVER (AP) — The FBI has begun investigating the proposed expansion of a Colorado ski area controlled by Howard "Bo" Callaway.

U.S. Atty. James L. Treece says the probe began when an agent relayed to federal prosecutors a report that a bribe might have been paid. A newsman says the report originated with an anonymous telephone call he received.

Callaway took a voluntary leave of absence from his post as President Ford's campaign manager over the weekend after Sen. Floyd K. Haskell,

D Colo., announced that his Senate subcommittee will hold hearings on the resort at Crested Butte, Colo.

The Senate investigation was prompted not by allegations of bribery but by questions about a meeting last summer in which Callaway, then secretary of the Army, met with Forest Service officials in the Pentagon and asked that the ski area be allowed to expand, according to then-Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phillip Campbell.

Campbell says he was at the meeting.

The Forest Service is part of the Department of Agriculture.

The bribery allegations do not mention Callaway's name. But Treece said it was the possibility of bribery that gave the FBI a connection to the case. He said such a bribe would be a federal crime.

The bribery allegations apparently originated with a newsman who said he was told by an anonymous caller that $135,000 had been paid. The alleged recipient denied it and said he called for the investigation. The newsman said he would not have even printed the story had officials not begun an investigation.

On Sunday, Simon Tullai, assistant agent-in-charge of the Denver FBI office, confirmed that the FBI was investigating the case but refused further comment. "We were told back at headquarters to refer questions to the U.S. attorney's office," Tullai said.

Callaway said he is confident there has been no impropriety. He said he asked to be relieved because he feels Ford's reputation of openness, honesty and integrity makes it "important to go the extra mile." Ford said in Greensboro, N.C., that he was relieving Callaway at Callaway's request.

Like almost all Rocky Mountain ski resorts, Crested Butte operates on public land and its owners pay the government royalties.

The controversy began after the Crested Butte Development Corp., in which Callaway owns the controlling interest, applied to the Forest Service for inclusion of Mt. Snodgrass, adjacent to the present area.

Neil Edstrom, then the service's district ranger in the Gunnison National Forest, drafted a report last summer recommending disapproval. He also wrote in a letter on Jan. 20, 1975, to Ralph Walton, the resort's president and Callaway's brother-in-law, that "ski area development is essentially an irreversible commitment of resources which we do not feel is necessary at this time."

Last summer, Callaway met with Forest Service officials in his Pentagon office and asked that the expansion be allowed, Campbell said.

No action has been taken on the requested expansion. The Forest Service last month approved a request by the Gunnison County Commission for a six-month delay before an environmental impact statement is filed.

PATRIOTIC ADDITION — This 44-by-83 inch hand-crocheted American Flag is a colorful and patriotic addition to the Court View Restaurant, 149 N. Main St. Made by Mrs. Lizzie Eakins, it is a duplicate of Betsy Ross' original 13-star American banner.

Son requests flag

Who can turn down a son's request? Mrs. Lizzie Eakins certainly couldn't, so when her son, Dale Eakins, owner of the Court View Restaurant, 149 North Main, asked her to duplicate a flag he'd seen, she agreed to do so. Mrs. Eakins, who works in her son's restaurant, said she only worked on the hand-crocheted flag in the evenings and it took her three weeks to complete it.

The 44-by-83 inch 13-star-flag can be seen displayed at the Court View Restaurant. Mrs. Eakins, who crochets but doesn't knit, said that the only pattern she had for the flag was a designed for knitting pattern but she used it anyway.

"It's not for sale," Mrs. Eakins said, "Only for decoration. My son wanted me to make it so I did."

Ford rips Demos on failure to okay tax-share extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today accused the Democratic-controlled Congress of threatening the nation's cities with disaster by failing to approve an extension of the revenue-sharing program.

Speaking to a meeting of some 2,000 municipal officials, Ford also chided Congress for being slow in providing supplemental money for an existing public jobs program while defending his veto of the $6-billion public works bill which Congress unsuccessfully tried to override.

Ford said revenue-sharing must be renewed this year but "Congress did not share my sense of urgency. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Congress fails to understand the importance of this program to the people of the cities, and counties and states of our nation."

"Failure to renew this program would weaken the fiscal stability of our cities. You know that expiration of this program, or a reduction in the payments you now receive, would mean cutbacks in essential services, increased public and related private sector unemployment, or the imposition of more taxes."

Ford's attack on Congress followed criticism from some municipal leaders who blamed both the White House and Congress for failing to extend revenue-sharing.

In a news conference Sunday opening the annual legislative conference of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities, Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans said the stalemate was leaving the cities "on the brink of chaos."

Landrieu applauded Ford for proposing an extension of revenue-sharing but said even Ford has "failed to realize the impact that inflation is having on our general revenue-sharing funds."

"At the same time, we must also point out that other actions by the President jeopardize the re-enactment of this vital program," Landrieu, a Democrat and head of the mayors' conference, said.

"President Ford, by vetoing some 46 pieces of legislation, has created such a climate in Washington between the Democratic majority of the Congress and the Republican administration that the revenue-sharing program is being held hostage."

"It is ironic that the Democratic Congress, in order to deal with a Republican administration, is prepared to cut off the nose of the cities to get even with a Republican administration."

The general revenue-sharing program, heart of former President Richard M. Nixon's "New Federalism," has pumped more than $30 billion into state and local governments since enactment in 1972.

However, the program expires Dec. 31 unless Congress can come up with an extension. Ford proposed a 5½-year extension of almost $40 billion, a slight increase in funding but one which city officials say is inadequate.

The Ford package was submitted almost a year ago but is still in a House Government operations subcommittee which last Thursday cut the program back to 3½ years and froze the level of funding.

BMV shortages probed

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) ignored written warnings about the accounts of deputy auto registrar John M. Keller in Lebanon that might have avoided an estimated $90,650 shortage, the Chronicle-Telegram said today in a copyrighted story.

The afternoon newspaper said the instance of warnings and lack of action was similar to that in the case of Elyria deputy car tag registrar Anthony J. Marsico, in which records show the majority of the $320,000 he admitted stealing was taken after the warnings.

The BMV closed the Keller agency Dec. 31, 1974. It announced in mid-March that Keller's accounts for the years of 1973 and 1974 were short $90,650. The figure was one of five shortages totaling $660,000 announced by the bureau at the time, including the Marsico sum.

The Chronicle-Telegram said the state auditor's office nearly has completed a formal audit of the Keller agency in which preliminary figures indicate about $90,000 missing. It said Lebanon police expect to present the case to a Warren County grand jury in May.

Keller became deputy registrar in January 1971 and was having trouble with his accounts by the end of 1972, the paper said. It said the bureau sent between 50 and 70 debit memorandums to Keller seeking sums typically $20 to $40 and, in four such memos early in 1973, demanded $7,566 it said was due on his 1972 business.

The total, estimated by the BMV to be $11,000 for 1972 business, was paid by June 1973, the paper said.

Besides the memos, a field representative began a series of written reports to the bureau warning of what he termed "serious problems" in the Keller operation, the paper said that official told a reporter last week.

The official asked for anonymity, saying, "I've been harassed unbelievably this past year," the paper said.

He also told of giving oral warnings

Congress eyes status of U.S. capital district

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking up the question of whether the Constitution should be amended to give the District of Columbia two senators and a share of representatives in the House.

The House is scheduled Tuesday to take up the amendment, proposed by the District's nonvoting delegate, Walter E. Fauntroy.

On the same day, the Senate is to begin debate on its version of legislation to reconstitute the Federal Election Commission and thus assure the continuation of the government campaign law.

By the terms of a Supreme Court decision, the commission must be re-established as a body of presidential appointees or lose its authority to handle campaign funds. The court originally set a March 1 deadline and then extended it to March 22, which Congress now cannot meet. However, handlers of the legislation say a brief interruption in the flow of campaign contributions would not seriously hamper candidates.

Before the election bill debate, the Senate is to take up a bill designed to strengthen enforcement powers of government agencies that administer cleanliness standards in food processing plants.

Meanwhile, the House was to take up a compromise measure to settle a long controversy over financing child day-care centers. It would continue until July 1 a suspension of strict staffing standards ordered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and provide $125 million in additional federal funds to help meet the requirements.

The House will vote Wednesday on arrangements to escort the Magna Carta from Britain to this country for Bicentennial observances. A confused series of parliamentary moves and votes last week resulted in defeat of a resolution setting up the arrangements. The vote also resulted in some embarrassment to congressional leaders who thought the details had been worked out with their British counterparts.

The proposed constitutional amendment for the District of Columbia would not make a state of the capital city but would grant it full voting rights — two senators, and, on the basis of a population of about 750,000, two representatives.

In terms of population, the District is larger than 10 states, according to the 1970 census.

An amendment ratified in 1961 gave District citizens for the first time a voice in presidential elections. In 1973, limited home rule was authorized, with an elected mayor and council. But Congress retained veto powers and control of the District budget.

The representation amendment, like all constitutional changes, would require a two-thirds vote in each chamber and then ratification by three-quarters of the states. Supporters were especially gloomy about the chances in the Senate because of resistance to increasing the number of Senators.

Sadat tearing up Russian treaty

CAIRO (AP) — The Soviet Union has suffered another setback in the Middle East with President Anwar Sadat's announcement that he is tearing up the 1971 Soviet-Egyptian treaty of friendship and cooperation.

The Egyptian People's Assembly meets this afternoon to discuss Sadat's proposal that it nullify the 15-year treaty. The Assembly's approval is a certainty.

Among the results could be an end to the use of Egyptian ports by Soviet naval ships and competition by the United States, Britain and France to supply the arms Egypt can no longer get from the Soviet Union.

There was no immediate reaction from Moscow. But the controlled Soviet press has long been critical of Sadat's cooperation with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's negotiations to foster peace between the Arabs and Israel.

In a three-hour speech to the assembly Sunday night, Sadat said the "Soviet Union is exerting military and economic pressures on Egypt to force me to bow to their demands, something that I will not do."

"All the Soviet arms in Egypt, including aircraft, will become mere scrap in a year or 18 months" because

Candidates await Illinois primary election ballots

CHICAGO (AP) — President Ford looked for another victory, Ronald Reagan braced for another defeat and the Republican rivals left the campaign arena to Democratic contestants today on the eve of the Illinois presidential primary election.

It was the fifth leg of the White House relay race and among Democrats, a man who wasn't running, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, loomed over the field as he sought to reassert the dominance he once enjoyed in Illinois presidential politicking.

Ford managers pressed to be more concerned about overconfidence than about the ballot-box impact of a budding controversy over Howard H. Callaway, Ford's suspended campaign manager. Callaway faces an investigation of his role in pressing while secretary of the Army for expansion of the federal land leased to a Colorado ski resort he and his brother-in-law control.

Reagan took a campaign breather and awaited the returns in seclusion in California, after saying he would be satisfied to gain 40 per cent of the Illinois popular vote and about one-sixth of the 96 nominating delegates at stake in the primary.

Ford concluded his personal campaigning Friday. His manager, former

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, said the President would win by a 2-1 margin in the presidential preference vote, which is purely for show.

Ogilvie said he was aiming to win 80 of the 96 GOP delegates for Ford.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, who has won three of the four presidential primaries so far; Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace; Sargent Shriver; and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred R. Harris are the entries in the Democratic popularity contest.

But Daley, promoting delegate slates committed to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III as a favorite son candidate, hopes to lead more than 100 of the state's 169 delegates when they go to New York City in July to choose a presidential nominee.

Whatever happens in Tuesday's election, the delegates will in fact be free to vote any way they want at the national convention. Under state law, they are not bound to back the candidate for whom they are listed on the ballot.

And for the Democrats who will be here long after the presidential parade has passed by, the real contest Tuesday was the primary battle between Gov. Daniel Walker and Secretary of State Michael Howlett, Daley's candidate for the governorship.

Wallace staged the most intensive of the campaign windup performances, with appearances slated today in Chicago and three other cities on the way to a final rally in Springfield.

Carter was appearing in Chicago, as was Shriver, a candidate in desperate need of a big showing to pull back from the brink of political collapse after fractional shares of the vote in the first four primary states.

Daley, a national Democratic power for two decades, lost his clout to reformers four years ago but was out to rebuild it in this campaign. He was virtually guaranteed command of 59 Chicago delegates and was backing candidates to expand his corps of national convention votes past the 100 mark.

Carter, Wallace and Walker, a Daley foe, all are trying to win delegates, too. Walker promoted uncommitted delegates as an alternative to those aligned with Daley. Shriver and Harris hoped to pick off at least a few of the convention delegates. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, winner in the Massachusetts presidential primary two weeks ago, bypassed the Illinois campaign.

Carter said on the CBS program "Face the Nation" Sunday that he hopes to run first in the preferential primary and capture at least 21 delegates.

Wallace, on the ABC program "Issues and Answers," said he expects to do well but declined to say what that means. He also said an Illinois defeat would not be fatal to his campaign, battered last Tuesday by Carter's upset victory in the Florida primary.

The Alabama governor said he thinks he'll have at least 400 nominating delegates when the Democrats convene next summer.

He said he believes he can support the Democratic nominee — but then added that wouldn't necessarily apply to Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona. Udall has said he would bolt the Democratic party before he would support a Wallace ticket. Udall isn't running in Illinois.

From the Republican candidates there was silence. Reagan's goal seemed to be to play down Illinois and wait for the North Carolina primary one Tuesday hence in hopes he can make a stand there after losing narrowly to Ford in New Hampshire and Florida. The President also won virtually uncontested primary races in Massachusetts and Vermont.

With Callaway temporarily sidelined as Ford's campaign manager, a Justice Department spokesman said Sunday night the FBI is looking into Callaway's involvement in the expansion of the ski resort near Crested Butte, Colo.

In Denver, U.S. Atty. James L. Treece said Sunday night that the FBI is looking into the possibility that a bribe might have been paid to get U.S. Forest Service approval of the plan to expand the resort.

There was no indication Callaway was involved in the bribe offer.

In other political developments:

—Jackson, appearing on the NBC program "Meet the Press," renewed his criticism of what he called "the giveaway aspects" of U.S. detente with the Soviet Union. He said he doesn't want confrontation but that he does want tough bargaining.

Rail employee changes needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employees of railroads involved in the federal railroad reorganization must become employees of Conrail in order to qualify for employee protection benefits enacted by Congress, an Ohio congressman says.

U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, said employees of affected railroads have until March 15 to decide whether they are going to accept employment with the new Consolidated Rail Corporation.

Brown said he sought clarification of the issue after his office received numerous inquiries from railroad workers seeking an explanation of their rights and options under the 1973 act. Employees accepting employment with Conrail by the deadline will be eligible for employment protection benefits enacted by Congress to assist displaced or transferred Conrail personnel.

Those notifying Conrail they do not wish employment will be denied such benefits, Brown said.

Stocks take sharp dip

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, continuing Friday's slide.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped more than 3 points in the early going. Losers opened up a lead of better than 2 to 1 over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market's drop Friday seemed to convince some investors that prices were due for a pullback after their sharp rise through the first 10 weeks of the year.

They also noted some uncertainty over the decision by France to withdraw from the joint float system of European currencies.

Today's early prices included RCA, up 1/4 at 27 1/4; Philip Morris, unchanged at 51 1/4, and General Motors, 3/4 lower at 67 1/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 15.67 to 987.64, cutting its gain for the week to 14.72 points.

UAW sees job security major issue

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers union officials say most of the talk may be about job security Thursday when some 3,000 UAW delegates gather here for the union's collective bargaining convention.

Many members of the giant — 750,000 member — union are worried about their jobs and will be seeking job security almost as avidly as they sought fatter pay checks in the past.

Some 53,000 auto workers are still out of work due to the massive slump that hit the auto industry beginning in 1973.

"Our people are damn concerned about job security," said UAW Vice President Ken Bannan. "Our experience during the life of this contract has not been a healthy one. We've had 2 1/2 years of steady decline and we're just now seeing a gradual recovery."

Another union leader, Vice President Douglas Fraser, echoed those remarks. "When we're at the bargaining table — no matter how prosperous we are by then — we will not forget the (recent) hard times," he vowed.

Some 200,000 auto workers were without jobs during the worst part of the auto slump, caused by the one-two punch of the gasoline shortage and the economic recession.

One tactic the union might take to get members back to work is a shorter work week.

Sulfates rise in Ohio's air

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sulfates suspended in the air over Ohio cities have increased since 1971, the Ohio Lung Association said Saturday.

The OLA said Environmental Protection Agency readings of sulfates in recent years show air is increasingly polluted over Canton, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton and Youngstown compared with 1971.

The OLA said researchers believe suspended sulfates which can penetrate deeply into the lungs are more directly related to lung disease than any other pollutant.

"When a national limit is set for sulfates, it will certainly be less than 10 micrograms per cubic meter of air," predicted Dale C. Hollern, OLA executive director. All the Ohio cities reviewed are over 10 "and have been for years," Hollern said.

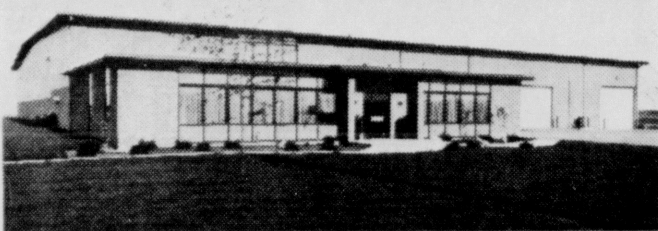

Also my sincere thanks to Dr. Thomas Hancock, Dr. Robert Anderson, and all the nurses and aides for their fine care.

And thanks to Father David Petrie whose visits and prayers helped so much.

Sincerely,

Ann O'Connor

Hearst trial windup slated this week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Government rebuttal testimony in Patricia Hearst's bank robbery trial was expected to resume today when Miss Hearst, nearly recovered from a bout with the flu, returns to court.

"Every indication is she will be in court Monday," defense attorney Albert Johnson said Sunday. "She told me she's improved, although she still has some aching and congestion."

Court sessions were canceled last Thursday and Friday when the 22-year-old newspaper heiress fell ill and was returned to her San Mateo County Jail cell to recuperate.

Dr. Harry Kozol, a Boston psychiatrist who interviewed Miss Hearst for the prosecution, was on the stand last week and is expected to continue testifying today as the trial

Malik injured in auto crash

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union has been hospitalized in this Long Island community with possible broken ribs after an automobile accident that claimed one life and critically injured another person.

The crash Sunday night also put Malik's wife, Valentina, 50, in the Community Hospital intensive care unit with multiple abrasions and possible internal injuries. Four others were admitted.

enters its eighth, and perhaps final, week.

Kozol's controversial Jan. 7 examination of Miss Hearst was the subject of a three-day pretrial hearing. The defense tried to prevent further examination by the psychiatrist, whom Miss Hearst said had bullied her to hysterical tears with accusing questions.

However, Kozol disputed virtually all her contentions, and U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter ordered Miss Hearst to submit to further examination by Kozol.

Since last week, Miss Hearst's physical condition has become nearly as much an issue as her mental condition because it has slowed down her already protracted trial.

Jail officials reported Saturday and Sunday that Miss Hearst was improved and said she was resting comfortably without fever.

But Johnson said Sunday that Miss Hearst is "a rundown person. She was rundown before the trial, and she's more rundown now. She weighed herself the other day and is down to 92 pounds."

The Boston attorney said it is unlikely Miss Hearst will be called to the witness stand during defense rebuttal. But he said it hasn't been decided whether her parents — Randolph A. Hearst, president of the San Francisco Examiner, and Catherine Hearst, a University of California regent — will be called.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Our nation's soaring national debt continues to make very little impression on the perennial supporters of foreign aid in Congress. They remain steadfast in their determination to give away to other countries what we do not have to give.

The House last week passed its Fiscal Year 1976 foreign aid appropriations bill, which provides gifts and loans worth $4.9 billion—plus several hundred million for the transitional period. This bounty of military and economic aid represents a 35 per cent increase over last's foreign giveaway program.

Aside from the failure of this annual ritual to gain us friends abroad, our pressing domestic priorities and an impending $75 billion budget deficit make it imperative that we stop this endless outflow of American tax dollars.

With our enormous national debt, Congress simply must, at some point, come to the realization that this kind of spending has to stop. Our foreign aid program is unquestionably a primary contributor to our national debt.

In 1950, the gold holdings of the United States amounted to nearly $23 billion. Today, these holdings have shrunk to about $11.6 billion.

Also in 1950, the short-term dollar claims against our nation were over $8.5 billion. And yet, today, these short-term claims stand at an astounding $93 billion-plus. All of which tells us that while our assets have dwindled each year, the debt owed us by other nations for foreign aid packages have grown decidedly.

We have certainly done far more than our share in aiding the governments of nations in distress. Since the end of World War II, the United States has contributed about $200 billion in aid to some 140 nations.

We almost singlehandedly rebuilt post-war Europe. Our contribution was great, but all too often has been forgotten or purposely ignored by many beneficiaries of our compassion and generosity.

During House consideration of the foreign aid appropriations bill, an amendment was offered to strike funds for the United Nations Development Program. I supported the amendment, but unfortunately, it was rejected.

Earlier appropriations committee hearings had revealed that the United Nations Development Program employs over 1,000 personnel in its headquarters and field operations. On top of that, UNDP hired another 9,801 experts in 1974.

We in this country are all too familiar with government bureaucracy and the staggering costs of maintaining such a bureaucracy. Given our track record in this area, we certainly do not need to take over the expense of some top-heavy international bureaucracy which doles out funds to the likes of Cuba, Bulgaria, Albania, and other Communist states.

As one House member put it during debate on the amendment: "It seems perfectly all right for many members of the House who enjoy cocktail parties and hospitality at the Tower of Babel on the East River to tell us that we not only should not cut money, but we should increase spending so that we can give away still more of the taxpayers' money to the United Nations."

With Americans paying about 35 to 40 percent of their income in taxes to all levels of government, this business of pouring revenues into an ineffective and increasingly anti-American organization like the United Nations is the very height of carelessness and irresponsibility.

House approval of this multi-billion-dollar foreign giveaway program was both unwise and untimely. The foreign aid burden has become a heavy one for Americans to bear.

It seems to be an endless exercise, and from the standpoint of effectiveness, it has been a fruitless one as well.

Production employment dips

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Production employment in Ohio was down 4 per cent in January from the same month in 1975, Ohio State University's center for business and economic research reported.

The center said all eight major city-county areas surveyed showed January-to-January employment drops.

Agricultural, governmental and public education employees are not included in the center's production worker category.

The regional declines ranged from a low of 2 per cent in both Cincinnati (Hamilton County) and Toledo (Lucas County) to 7 per cent in Canton (Stark County) and Youngstown (Mahoning County), and included: Akron (Summit County) and Dayton (Montgomery County), 3 per cent; Columbus (Franklin County), 5 per cent; and

Cleveland (Cuyahoga County), 6 per cent.

On an industry by industry basis, Ohio construction workers suffered most, as employment in that sector showed a 21 per cent January-to-January decline. All manufacturing industries reported a 6 per cent employment drop in the same comparison, while Ohio mine and quarry employment was down only fractionally, the center said.

Employment levels were higher in January from the same month a year ago in three industrial categories: textiles, up 2 per cent; miscellaneous manufacturing, 1 per cent; and stone, clay and glass products, where a fractional increase was noted.

The center also noted the number of man hours worked by Ohio production workers was down in January from January 1975.

Lobbyist faces new charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time, the federal government is accusing former Gulf Oil Corp. lobbyist Claude C. Wild Jr. of approving illegal payments of company funds to political candidates.

A federal grand jury indicted Wild on Friday on felony charges that he "did willfully and unlawfully consent" to contributing $5,000 to the 1974 campaign of Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and $2,500 to the 1972 campaign of Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga.

The charges carry a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine for conviction on each count.

Depositions in connection with a government suit against Gulf named Wild, 52, as the company official who decided how much money should go to which political candidate.

It was the first indictment in eight months secured by lawyers from the Watergate Special Prosecutor's office.

Wild in 1972 became one of the first corporate officials charged with making an illegal campaign contribution. He pleaded guilty on Nov. 13, 1973, to a misdemeanor charge of illegally contributing Gulf money to the campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon and was fined $1,000. Gulf also pleaded guilty to a similar charge at that time and was fined $5,000.

Auxiliary contributes to funds

Highlighting the spring calendar for the local Veterans of World War I organizations will be the District 7 meeting, April 25, to be held at Grace United Methodist Church according to announcement made Thursday evening to members of Fayette County Auxiliary no. 2291 meeting in the American Legion Hall. Both Auxiliary and Barracks members will join in welcoming the delegations from Columbus, Delaware, Gahanna, Newark and Fairfield counties.

During the round table discussion Mrs. Nellie Kennedy presided. In charge of the opening ceremonies were Mrs. Calvin Johnson, chaplain pro tem, and Mrs. Cloyce Copley, conductress protem.

Following the Pledge of Allegiance, various reports were given and communications were read. Remembered were shutins and the birthdays of Mrs. Paul Strevey and Mrs. Eunice Draper. Members voted to contribute to both the Prayer Breakfast program and the Heart Fund. In line with spurring on the 1976 membership campaign, Mrs. Kennedy alerted the group of the worthwhile awards being offered to organizations and members qualifying for the most reinstated and new members.

Mrs. Allen Sells, legislative chairman, projected a discussion on the outlook this year for a better pension program for veterans and widows. She further brought out how vital and important a writing campaign is at this time to congressmen to support a measure earmarked to benefit the aging veteran whose limited income cannot cope with present day prices. She again cited the bill S880 by Senator McGovern and co-sponsors which provides a general pension similar to one veterans have been seeking.

As a concluding feature of the evening Mrs. Sells added a little humor toward growing old by reciting Charles E. King's poem "Rhyme to Pass Away the Time".

Members adjourned to meet on April 8th in the American Legion Hall.

DON'T let the weather cheat you of all your fragrance potential. When you plan to be outdoors all day, dab on a bit more scent. Outdoor breezes carry off fragrance faster than indoor still air. Warm weather helps bring out the character in a scent; cold weather doesn't encourage its staying power. DON'T expect any fragrance to develop its full qualities for at least ten minutes after you've applied it. It takes this much time for the alcohol in any fragrance to evaporate and for the oils in the perfume to combine with your skin oils.

Southern State offers horse management class

WILMINGTON — Southern State College will offer a course in horse management for the first time this spring quarter, which begins March 29. The class will meet at Southern State's north campus in Wilmington on the former Clinton County Air Force Base. Phillip Karns, D.V.M., will teach the course. Dr. Karns, a Dayton veterinarian who limits his practice to horses, said the course is designed for persons who work with or own horses and want to know how to prevent problems rather than treat them. Proper care and disease prevention will be stressed. The course will not deal with horseback riding and training methods. Subjects to be covered include equine history, breeds and classes of horses, anatomy, behavior, selection and conformation, and health maintenance. The class will meet one evening a week for 11 weeks, with the possible inclusion of field trips. Dr. Karns is a graduate of Ohio State University with a B.S. in animal science. He received his veterinary training from the Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine. Dr. Karns has been involved with livestock management for 30 years, concentrating on horses for the past ten years. Enrollment for horse management and other spring quarter courses at Southern State College will continue through March 26, followed by late registration through April 2. Call the north campus at 382-6645 or the south campus at 695-4421 for admissions and financial aid information.

Market behaving as predicted

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For those who have watched past flirtations with 1,000 points on the Dow Jones industrial average, there have been few surprises over the past few weeks. The market has behaved as expected. Those who were unpleasantly surprised by its failure to remain in four-digit territory appear to have too easily forgotten the character, the personality of the market. It is indeed a flirt; the term is no misnomer. Every time in the past 10 years that it has come into the presence of 1,000 points — that is, within 50 points or so — it has moved erratically, trifling and toying and winking and misleading the investor. When the average broke 1,000 points and stayed above that mark last Thursday, many an investor was fully prepared for a direct and sudden move to follow in the opposite direction, because that is how it has behaved in the past. Even sophisticated investors forgot this, however, and they believed the promoters and hucksters who assured them that the very next challenge to the market was its old high of 1,051.70 points on Jan. 11, 1973. Instead, the market retreated 15.67 points, all the way back down to 987.64 on Friday, from 1,003.31 points on Thursday. And so, this week begins with the flirtation still going on. How much longer will it continue? Quite likely it won't last much longer. Everyone gets tired of a flirt; the glamor, the attraction, the mystique wears off, and then the boredom sets in. There are too many strong opinions about this economy — which the market allegedly reflects — for it to daily much longer. Each day those economic factors play a larger role, and the significance of 1,000 points diminishes. As investors return to the more fundamental considerations, the market is bound to move out of the 1,000-point area, above or below. There is too much active participation for it to simply turn inert.

Russian officials study Ohio patrol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four Russian officials were studying Ohio Highway Patrol equipment today such as the breathalyzer, VASCAR and helicopter and motor vehicle patrol techniques.

As you read the stock market letters and commentaries you become aware of the divisions of opinion regarding the economy. While the market flirts with 1,000 points, the economic argument continues, and eventually it will be the determining force. A large number of professional analysts of the market foresee a gradual and undramatic but solid improvement in the economy over the next six months, and for this reason they feel confident about the present level of prices. There are those who are suspicious too. Some observe that they see elements of a boom mentality among some investors but argue that the economic data to support such an attitude is absent. Government by statistic, they seem to say, can be misleading. It is true that the numbers are improving, but do the numbers truly represent reality? Do they tend to hide the weaknesses in the economic structure?

It is the economic debate that soon will dominate the stock market, and then we'll see the end of this flirtation with a number, a neat number though it be, and get back to more worthwhile musings.

Cincinnati fluoridation arrives

CINCINNATI (AP) — Barring last-minute court maneuvering today, Cincinnati will become one of the last major cities to fluoridate its drinking water, ending a 25-year legal battle.

City officials said "very minute amounts" of the decay fighting chemical would be added to the water as the first step toward reaching full fluoridation.

Antifluoridationists, however, have indicated they will file an appeal today to block the action. The group, maintaining fluoride causes cancer, won a two-week temporary restraining order Feb. 27, delaying the March 1 target date.

Fluoridation was rejected by Cincinnati voters in 1953, 1960, 1973 and in a charter amendment in 1974.

But the Ohio Supreme Court ruled last Nov. 19 that Cincinnati and Canton must fluoridate their water, upholding

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that a Leesburg woman lost control of her car Saturday on Ohio 41, and slid off the left side of the roadway.

Vicki S. Seymour, 18, of Leesburg, was northbound on Ohio 41-S, when she lost control of the vehicle, at 11 a.m. Saturday, went left of center, slid off the left side of the roadway, and struck a mail box belonging to Robert D. Lowe of 1102 Ohio 41-S. There was moderate damage to the Seymour car. Mrs. Seymour was not injured.

Meade Noble of 1967 Rockbridge told sheriff's deputies that while his car was parked on Ohio 753, it was struck in the side by a hitskip vehicle at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. There was moderate damage to the Noble vehicle.

Dwaine Upp, 37, of Jeffersonville, told Washington C.H. police officers that as he was motioned out of a parking space by an unidentified vehicle on Fayette Street, just north of Court Street, he was struck at 10:40 a.m. Saturday, by a car driven by Michael L. Hurles, 23, of 1121 E. Paint St. Hurles reportedly pulled around the stopped, unidentified vehicle, and then when he was in the process of getting back into his proper lane, he struck Upp's car. There was slight damage to both Upp's car and Hurles' truck.

Hurles was cited for improper lane changing.

A car parked in the Kroger's parking lot, and belonging to Norman E. Underwood of 923 Clinton Ave., was reportedly struck by a hitskip vehicle at 12:15 p.m. Saturday. There was moderate damage to the front end of Underwood's car.

Florence S. Barchet, 71, of 723

Washington Ave., was in the process of backing from a parking space on South Main Street when she struck a car driven by William A. Vince, 23, of 517 Albin Ave. Vince's car was stopped, waiting to make a left turn onto West Court Street. The 5:03 p.m. Saturday accident resulted in slight damage to Vince's car, and Mrs. Barchet was cited for backing without safety.

Funding of Community Education discussed

The Community Education Advisory Council has set a $1,000 fund-raising goal for the Fayette County Program.

Community education director Hank Shaffer will attempt to reach the proposed goal by soliciting area businesses for donations.

Also at the advisory council's meeting, Kaye Bartlett, Dr. Leroy Davis and Edwin M. Nestor, city school superintendent, agreed to write and submit the federal funding proposal for the local program.

At the council's next meeting, Dr. Tom Hayden, state coordinator of Community Education, and Dr. George Kliminski, director of the center for community education at Kent State University, will be on hand to discuss the local program.

The meeting will attempt to bring into focus the "grey areas" of community education as the federal government sees it and to discuss how the local program fits into the state plan.

A report on the progress of the fundraising drive will be given, a proposed Cincinnati Bengal basketball game to raise funds for the drill team will be discussed, and a community education promotion plan will be reviewed.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Washington Middle School cafeteria.

AMID TORNADO DEBRIS — President Gerald Ford points toward spot where roof was blown off Howard Johnson Motor Lodge in Park Ridge, Ill., northwest of Chicago, as he tours tornado damage in Illinois. Tornadoes swept through parts of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan causing severe damage, injuries and deaths. Ford was campaigning for the Illinois primary near the area where some of the tornadoes struck.

Vegas strip darkened

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A union that has closed 12 of 15 strike-bound Las Vegas Strip hotel-casinos says a lockout provision in a management proposal must be eliminated before talks can resume.

A fruitless meeting Sunday between negotiators for the 22,000-member Culinary Workers Union and hotel operators added to the feeling here that the walkout, now four days old, could last a long time.

The clause would permit hotels of the Nevada Resort Association to lock out all union members if one member refused to cross another union's picket line.

"There's no way we can talk about money when that clause is there," said Jeff McCall of the CWU. Forbidding members to observe other unions' picket lines would, one union official said, "make the CWU the leper of Southern Nevada labor."

Meanwhile, the strike by waitresses, bartenders, chefs and other workers left the Strip with vacant parking lots and many of its gaudy neon marquees darkened.

The 15 affected hotels contain about 30 per cent of the city's 35,000 rooms. The union is seeking a raise of $1.35 an hour. Waiters and waitresses now earn about $2.40 an hour and bartenders $4.50, plus tips.

Though picketing generally has been peaceful, 16 persons were arrested Sunday. Police said that in two incidents picketers blocked access to the Circus Circus and Officer Frank Bruns' nose was broken.

The hotel closings sent many tourists heading for home Sunday but not as many as airlines had been planning for. "We expected it, but it didn't happen," said United Airlines spokesman Dick Rhoades.

Apparently most tourists whose hotels had closed or who were disappointed by the closing of big name shows left gradually after the strike began Thursday. Others appeared to have found lodging at smaller hotels and motels and decided to stick around.

The hotels that shut their doors Sunday were the Thunderbird, Sahara, Tropicana, Flamingo Hilton, Las Vegas Hilton and MGM Grand. Six hotels owned by industrialist Howard Hughes closed at the outset of the strike.

Three of the struck hotels — Caesars Palace, Circus Circus and The Dunes — were still operating with nonunion help.

Start sealing of ill-fated mine

OVEN FORK, Ky. (AP) — Work crews were to begin sealing a Southeast Kentucky coal mine today in which 26 men died last week in two underground explosions.

The closing could mean the loss of jobs for several hundred miners who worked in the Scotia Coal Company's No. 1 Black Mountain mine and two other mines being shut down for damage checks and monitoring of methane gas levels.

Company officials have said Scotia employs about 500 persons. Approximately 225 of them work in the No. 1 mine.

Federal and state mining officials estimate the mine will be closed for at least two to three months, until the cause of last week's disasters can be determined and the danger of future explosions in the mine is past.

Government, company and union representatives were to meet today to consider reopening the two other mines which, like the No. 1 mine, are on high coal seams which frequently produce highly volatile methane gas, believed to the cause of last week's explosions.

Fifteen men were killed last Tuesday when an explosion ripped through the underground complex. A second blast claimed the lives of 11 men Thursday night who had gone back into the mine to investigate the first explosion.

The bodies of the 11 men killed Thursday night are still in the mine.

Bill Cornett, a vice president of Scotia's parent firm, the Blue Diamond Coal Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., said over the weekend that the men who worked in the No. 1 mine will be given jobs at the other two mining operations.

Cornett, however, said some layoffs can be expected.

Six persons slain; police study clues

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One of two surviving members of the Abt family says he has given police his ideas about the slaying of five members of the family and a friend. A cousin added that they have an idea who was responsible.

Police say the six persons slain were murdered as they separately entered the Abt home in suburban Trevese over the weekend.

"We think we know who may have done it," said Roger King, 26, a cousin of Michael Abt, 20. Michael Abt said he gave police his ideas about the case and predicted "things will become lively" today.

King made his comment Sunday after a meeting between Abt and Bensalem Township police. He declined to elaborate.

Police said it was Michael Abt who discovered the bodies when he arrived home at 8 p.m. Friday after having been out with friends. He ran to a neighbor's house, and they flagged down a passing police car.

Lawrence Michaels, Bensalem Township police chief, said it appears that the Abts were killed one by one as they came home.

The victims were John and Margaret Abt, each 50; their son, John, 13; daughters Margie, 20 and Cathy, 15; and Margie's boyfriend, Garson Engle, 20. Also killed was the family dog, a St. Bernard.

Another Abt son, Clifford, 24, was in Bucks County prison at the time on a contempt charge arising from traffic tickets. He has been moved to the township police station.

"We have no motive, and if I did, I wouldn't tell," Michaels told reporters. He said investigators have some leads, but he would not elaborate.

Police said the killer broke into the home Friday before 3:30 p.m. through a side door. Police have said nothing was taken, ruling out robbery as a motive.

Michael said at least 17 bullets were fired. Each of the six victims was shot once in the head with a small caliber weapon, but no gun was found at the two-story brick colonial home four miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Goldwater to speak at GOP festivities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R Ariz., was to address a $150-a-plate Republican fundraising dinner here tonight.

The 1964 GOP Presidential nominee, currently in his fourth term in the Senate, is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee.

Rubinstein performance his last?

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Arthur Rubinstein, 89, will play what may be his last New York concert tonight, although he says his eyesight is failing so fast he no longer sees the keyboard.

Julius Bloom, executive director of Carnegie Hall, commented in an interview Sunday, "With his experience, he doesn't have to look at the keyboard often. He has hundreds of pieces stored in his head."

"We've been aware for some time that his vision is getting quite limited. He has only peripheral sight and, if he wants to see the keyboard, he has to lean over, put his head way down."

The news about Rubinstein's eyes became public in an article by New York Times music writer Donal Henahan in the newspaper's magazine this Sunday.

"Naturally, I regret this very much, but what can you do?" Rubinstein was quoted as saying. "I am getting old and these things happen to one at this time. I still will enjoy every day, and keep on playing if I can."

The problem is caused by a hardening of the blood vessels in the eyeball and is not helped by glasses.

Reagan may skip Ohio primary vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One of Ronald Reagan's major supporters in the Ohio Legislature admits that the likelihood of a Reagan bid on Ohio June 8 Republican Presidential primary ballot is getting less by the day.

"If they wait another three days, they might as well forget it," Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, said. "There's no way we could get nominating petitions around in time to meet the March 25 filing deadline. We don't have the sophistication to do that."

A spokeswoman at Reagan's national headquarters in Washington said she was unaware of any decision to enter the Ohio race.

Batchelder admitted that Reagan's chances in Ohio are not good.

"People who otherwise would have been available (as Reagan delegates) are slated to Ford and I'm sure will honor that commitment," he said.

The state GOP organization has been committed to Ford for nearly one year and will send its delegates to the national party convention in Kansas City to vote for the President.

Batchelder added that the main quarrel he and other conservatives in the state have with the Ford administration is over foreign policy in general and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in particular.

"If the foreign policy were to be changed, it would end the issue for most conservatives," Batchelder said.

The Medina representative also said the suspension of Howard "Bo" Calloway as President Ford's campaign manager Saturday has the "potential to cause real problems" for the President.

Our America

DUELLING IN AMERICA

by

Harold Hower

To settle their quarrel over cards at the Royal Exchange Tavern, Henry Phillips and Benjamin Woodbridge retired to the Boston Commons, where they engaged in a fight with swords.

Taking a vicious thrust through the chest, Woodbridge fell and died late on the night of July 3, 1728, to become the first known fatality of a duel in America.

When the people of Boston discovered what had happened, they were horrified and pressured the governor to act against Phillips, a well-connected young man of 22. Governor Dummer issued a proclamation denouncing the duel as a "barbarous murder" and commanding all law officers to help in bringing Phillips to justice.

A coroner's jury was immediately formed to deliberate upon the event and to hear testimony from Thomas Baker and Robert Handy, the two men who acted as seconds for the duellists. The jury quickly indicted Phillips for murder.

But Phillips had already escaped with the help of influential friends, who took him in the schooner Molly on the night of the murder to the British warship Sheerness, which lay between Castle and Spectacle Islands. Phillips was welcomed aboard the frigate by its master, Captain Conrad, who carried him to safety across the sea.

Phillips eventually made his way to France, but lived there only a short time until he fell ill and died on May 20, 1729.

In resorting to the elaborate ritual of the duel to guard their honor, Phillips and Woodbridge, both prominent and well-to-do merchants, were looking backward to the example of Europe, and particularly of France, where the duel allowed the nobility to jealously guard their positions in a rigid social structure.

Because the duel itself was a step backward in the direction of Old World customs, it is appropriate that Phillips fled to the Old World, with the aid of the British and the French, rather than fleeing westward into the wilderness of the New World. His death after less than a year in exile may be seen to signify the impossibility of America's return to the traditions of Europe.

But while this early duel

looks backward, it also looks forward to a new tradition of violence and death in America.

Writing in 1831, de Toqueville says, "In America one only fights to kill. There are very few duels, but they almost always end fatally." In Europe the satisfaction of one's honor often involved little more than the drawing of a few drops of blood with a sword prick. But in America the duel evolved into the spontaneous shoot-out with nothing more at stake than the dubious supremacy that murder bestows.

Friars advance in NIT

Misecivius spells success

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Misecivius is not the easiest name in the world to pronounce, but it's spelling success for the Providence Friars in the 39th National Invitation Tournament.

The Providence strongman with the tricky name is the main reason his team is in Tuesday night's quarter-finals against Louisville.

"Misecivius is a young player with little experience and he can sometimes keep both teams in the game at the same time," says Providence Coach Dave Gavitt. "He sometimes tries to do too much on offense — but he did what he was told Saturday night."

Misecivius was as tough to handle as his name, scoring 16 of his 20 points in the second half, leading Providence to an 84-68 romp over North Carolina A&T in the opening round.

Three other first-round games were staged at Madison Square Garden, and Kentucky beat Niagara 67-61, North Carolina-Charlotte trimmed the University of San Francisco 79-74 in overtime and Holy Cross turned back St. Peter's 84-77.

The results set up a quarterfinal doubleheader tonight matching North Carolina-Charlotte against Oregon and Holy Cross against North Carolina State. Along with the Providence-

Louisville match Tuesday night, Kentucky will face Kansas State.

Providence and Louisville met earlier in the season and the Friars beat the Cardinals 63-60 with a weapon Gavitt calls the "spread offense." He used it Saturday night against North Carolina A&T, positioning the 6-foot-9, 230-pound Misecivius out past the key instead of under the basket. And the tactic spreadeagled the Aggies, allowing the big center to cash in on several easy, "back-door" baskets.

Gavitt plans to spring it on Louisville again Tuesday night, so it's no secret weapon as far as the Cardinals are concerned.

Kentucky had a tougher time with Niagara in the NIT opener. The Wildcats scuttled the Purple Eagles early with a run-and-gun offense, then had to survive a late Niagara rally.

James Lee led Kentucky with 20 points, while Jack Givens added 16. Niagara was paced by Andy Walker's 18.

Melvin Watkins hit the go ahead field goal with 1:03 in overtime to spur North Carolina-Charlotte past San Francisco in the best game of the opening four. Chris Potter netted 23 points, including seven in a game-breaking stretch, leading Holy Cross past St. Peter's.

Sabina basketball tourney continues

SABINA — The Sabina Lions Club basketball tournament will continue tonight with two games slated. At 7 p.m. Porter Hybrids will meet Clinton County National Bank and Harris Auction will take on Superior Carpet at 8:15 p.m. in the Sabina school gym.

Nine games were played over the weekend in the attempt to narrow the 10-team field to two for Friday's finals.

In Saturday's action, Superior Carpet topped Porter Hybrids, 86-72. Jamboree Sporting Goods beat Conchemco, 80-55. Harris Auction breezed by Williams Cardinal, 104-47. Snow Motors topped Sabina Bank, 55-48, and Superior Carpet came back to beat Sabina Farmers Exchange, 128-85.

On Sunday, Jamboree Sporting Goods beat Clinton County National Bank, 89-81; Conchemco nipped Williams Cardinal, 72-68, Porter Hybrids topped Sabina Bank, 86-54, and Conchemco returned to beat Sabina Farmers Exchange, 73-64.

Tide, Hoosier match to highlight NCAA

HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer

Quick, Bear Bryant, if you really know how to walk on water now's the time to tell C.M. Newton.

Perhaps taking a cue from Bryant's Alabama footballers, who finally won a postseason contest last season, Newton's eighth-ranked cagers registered the school's first-ever triumph in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament Saturday, knocking off fifth-ranked North Carolina 79-64.

That sends the Crimson Tide on to the next round of the talent-laden Mideast Regionals at Baton Rouge, La., where waiting in the wings is none other than unbeaten, No. 1-ranked Indiana. The Hoosiers walloped No. 17 St. John's 90-70 and led an advance of the top four teams in The Associated Press ratings.

Second-ranked Marquette whipped Western Kentucky 79-60, No. 3 Rutgers, the nation's only other undefeated quintet, had the scare of its life before nipping Princeton 54-53 and fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas buried Boise State 103-78. Sixth-ranked UCLA, the defending NCAA champion, also advanced with a 74-64 victory over San Diego State.

Leon Douglas, a 6-foot-10 center who was the Southeastern Conference's Player of the Year, keyed Alabama's victory over North Carolina with 35 points and 17 rebounds. Now, it's on to Baton Rouge, La., to meet the mighty Hoosiers Thursday night.

"We're playing the best team in the country, without any question," Newton said. "This is a great opportunity for us and a great challenge for us."

The two big upsets of Saturday's opening round came at Charlotte, N.C., where unheralded VMI stunned ninth-ranked Tennessee 81-75 and similarly unranked DePaul turned back No. 13 Virginia 69-60. At Providence, R.I., Rutgers edged Princeton and Connecticut outlasted Hofstra 80-78 in overtime.

Alabama and Marquette won their games at Dayton, Ohio, while Indiana came through at South Bend, Ind., along with No. 16 Western Michigan, a 77-67 winner over Virginia Tech in overtime.

At Lawrence, Kan., seventh-ranked Notre Dame needed the luck of the Irish to nose out No. 15 Cincinnati 79-78 and No. 10 Missouri shaded No. 11 Washington 69-67. Michigan, ranked 14th, squeaked past Wichita State 74-73 at Denton, Te., while No. 19 Texas Tech trounced Syracuse 69-56.

At Tempe, Ariz., No. 18 Arizona downed Georgetown 83-76 and Pepperdine defeated Memphis State 87-77. Nevada-Las Vegas and UCLA won at Eugene, Ore.

The Indiana-Alabama scuffle could turn into a showdown between Douglas and the Hoosiers' Scott May, AP College Player of the Year. May, who was hampered by a broken wrist when Indiana was eliminated in the regional finals of last year's NCAA Tournament, scored 33 points as the Hoosiers pulled away from stubborn St. John's with a 29-10 spurt midway through the second half.

Once-beaten Marquette stretched its winning streak to 22 games with an easy triumph over Western Kentucky behind Butch Lee's 21 points and 18 by Earl Tatum. The Warriors committed only two turnovers en route to a 36-29 halftime lead and blew the Hilltoppers out with a 14-5 burst early in the second half.

Rutgers' perfect record was in jeopardy in the closing seconds but the Scarlet Knights, who led by 10 early in the second half, survived when Princeton's Pete Molloy, a little-used reserve guard, missed the first part of a one-and-one situation with four seconds left.

Green wins Doral Golf tourney

MIAMI (AP) — Hubert Green describes himself as "just a skinny kid from Birmingham."

But in only five full seasons on the pro golf tour, this skinny kid from Birmingham has won nine American titles, a big money Japanese event and almost $600,000. But that, says Hubert, doesn't make him a great golfer.

"A great golfer, in my mind, is a man who wins the majors — who wins more than one of the majors," Green said. "When I think of great players, I think of Hogan and Snead, men like that."

"I don't wear those kind of shoes." But that's the next step for the lean and lanky man who scored a run-away, six-stroke, record-setting victory Sunday in the Doral Open.

"After you've won nine tournaments, or 15 tournaments, they just become numbers," Green said after his 18-underpar 270 total had set a record for the demanding, 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club and left defending champion Jack Nicklaus and young Mark Hayes struggling in his wake.

"Maybe all players don't do it, but I point for the majors," Green said. "I hope to win one someday. That's the Nevada-Las Vegas, which averaged 110.8 points a game during the regular season, took a 48-39 halftime lead over Boise and poured it on in the second half. Eddie Owens topped the Rebels with 24 points and Jackie Robinson added 20. UCLA's Richard Washington collected 25 and the Bruins broke open a tight game with San Diego State in the second half after leading by only three at the intermission.

Notre Dame, despite Adrian Dantley's 27 points, trailed Cincinnati most of the way but the Bearcats urred the ball over when they failed to inbound it in the allotted time with eight seconds left and a one-point lead. Notre Dame's Toby Knight then tipped in a missed shot in the final second.

Tennessee, minus Southeastern Conference scoring champ Bernard King, out with a thumb injury, fell to VMI despite Ernie Grunfeld's 36 points. The winners shot a blistering 66 per cent and Will Bynum, Ron Carter and John Krovic combined for 56 points.

Missouri's Jim Kennedy made two free throws and Willie Smith and Scott Sims one apiece in the final minute as the Tigers, behind 36-30 at the half, overtook Washington. DePaul trailed Virginia by five at halftime but Ron Norwood rallied the Blue Demons by scoring 21 of his 28 points in the second half.

The Tigers won the berth by whipping Ashland 61-49 here Saturday night, while Miles advanced with an 87-85 triumph over Transylvania at Lexington, Ky.

Tuesday's winner goes to the Division III national playoffs at Reading, Pa., March 19-20.

Wittenberg, the Ohio Conference runnerup, shot a sizzling 72 per cent from the field in the second half while improving its record to 22-4. Rick Seay chipped in 19 points, and Tom Dunn added 16 and Rick White 14.

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Steve Babson of Baldwin-Wallace was named the meet's outstanding performer after he led his team to its second straight Ohio Conference track and field championship Saturday.

Baldwin-Wallace had a team total of 152 points. Otterbein finished second with 77½ points, followed by Ohio Wesleyan 43½, Capital 41, Mount Union 38½, Denison 36, Ohio Northern 24, Wittenberg 20, Oberlin 15, Marietta 13½, Muskingum 12, Wooster 9, Kenyon 8 and Heidelberg 6.

Tom Blumer winner of Athens Marathon

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — A Miami University graduate student, Tom Blumer of Cincinnati, won the ninth running of the Athens Marathon on Sunday in 2:28:45.6.

Daniel Sekarek of Newark, running for the Ohio Track Club, was second, covering the 26 miles, 358 yards in 2:38:16.

Ronald Martin of Caldwell came in third 21 seconds later.

Prudhomme wins Gatornationals contest

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Don Prudhomme has become the top winner in National Hot Rod Association history by capturing funny car competition for the third year in a row at the seventh annual Gatornationals here.

Sunday's victory gave the Grenada Hills, Calif., competitor 16 career titles in NHRA competition.

James Warren reached a speed of 236.22 miles per hour to claim top fuel honors. Warren, 38, of Bakersfield, Calif., beat Jim Bucher of West Chester, Ohio, in the finals to earn approximately $12,000 in prize money.

while negotiations continue between club owners and the Players Association over a new labor contract. "I can't offer you a hard date, whether it is Monday or Tuesday, but we will have baseball and on time," Kuhn said Sunday in a surprise appearance at the hotel where negotiations are taking place.

Despite Kuhn's optimism, the negotiators issued dour reports at the end of the 29th negotiating session.

"We're a long way from having the key to the padlock," said John Gaherin, the chief negotiator for the owners.

"There is no drastic change at all," said Gaherin. "We're still confronted with the same problems at the same dimensions."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, agreed with Gaherin. Miller indicated, however, that the owners were stonewalling until a specific time, and then would break the impasse.

A management source told The Associated Press that the owners' deadline was Monday, probably before nightfall. That would open the camps Tuesday and give teams three weeks to get ready for the April 8 openers.

Kuhn was asked about the Monday deadline and replied: "I hope so ... But there is a difference of opinion among owners on how much time is needed for preparations."

The commissioner has the power to open the camps for the best interest of baseball. The league presidents, Chub Feeney of the National and Lee Macphail of the American, also could issue the order if they felt enough progress was being made at the negotiating table.

The thorny problem of the reserve clause still confronted the negotiators. The owners want a player tied to a club — unless traded, sold or released — for nine years. The Players Association is willing to settle for a six-year reserve clause. The players, under an arbitrator's decision subsequently upheld by two federal courts, legally could become free agents in two years under the controversial one-and-one option ruling.

Kuhn, however, took the play away from the tense negotiating scene. Casually attired in a yellow spot shirt and red sweater, he indicated that he came to Florida to help break the impasse.

"When I think opening the camps will help bargaining, I will open them," he declared. "I don't think that anyone takes seriously the thought that there will be no baseball."

Gaherin, his Management Players Relation Committee, Miller and nine players worked at the problem for 7½ hours Sunday. Included among the players present were Tom Seaver, the pitching ace of the New York Mets; Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Willie Stargell; Lou Brock and Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals, and catcher Bob Boone of the Philadelphia Phillies.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Why did I move to Florida?" Mickey Rooney muses. "Let's just say that I like having friends, and friendliness is sparse around here."

Actor, philosopher, husband, Rooney was back in his onetime home town, but only briefly. He was on the New York street at Paramount studios, taping a skit for an April 5 CBS special, "Dick Cavett's Backlot USA."

Rooney and a bunch of kids were repeating lines from his 1938 classic "Boy's Town," and it might have been cause for reminiscence. But the Mick resolutely refuses to live in the past.

"I'm more interested in what's going on now, today," he said, "and believe me, a lot is happening with me." He rattled off some of his activities.

1. Six months a year he appears in comedies at the Drury Lane Theaters in Chicago. He also tours summer theaters in "Sugar" and other shows.

2. He is starting a string of "Talent Town USA" schools to train youngsters to perform. "There's no place to develop talent in young people, the way the Meglin Kiddies did for Judy (Garland) and other stars."

3. He has helped form the Chicago Picture Corp., "with $12 million worth of screenplays ready for the right casting." Among them: a Dutch Schultz story "that is a natural for Gene Hackman."

4. He is scheduled for a role in Stanley Kramer's "The Domino Principle."

5. He is writing TV commercials, a novel, "The Broken Hearts," and "Mickey Rooney's Guide to Happy Marriage." He has had seven — at least they were happy for a while. When asked if he is married now, he looks at his watch and says, "Let's see, what time is it?"

His Andy Hardy exuberance hasn't diminished with his years (55). His home now is Fort Lauderdale, Fla., when he isn't traveling the country. He elaborated on his reasons for the move:

"Actors were not very friendly with each other in the old days. I think maybe the agents tried to keep them apart, so they could maintain their control of actors."

"I don't think much of the men who are running the industry today, and that's why I left town. Why sit around waiting? They don't know what to do with a bald-headed guy of 50. So they concentrate on just a few actors and now they've got only 12 'bankable' stars (whose names can secure loans)."

"The industry has lost its creative heart. Nobody is taking the time to develop talent. The heads of the studios are too busy throwing dinners for each other."

Nobody ever gave Mickey Rooney a testimonial dinner. "They kicked me out of the clubhouse," said the actor, who was the no. 1 box-office star from 1938-1940. He's not bitter, just realistic.

"I manage Mickey Rooney now," he said. "I've made more money in the past five years than ever before in my career."

But he added: "There's something wrong with the way the film industry treats actors. A pro football star plays 15 years and retires at $1,500 a month for life. A movie star works 15 years and what does he get? A room at the Motion Picture Country House."

'Lantern' sued by rental agent

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A rental agent leasing apartments in the Ohio State University area is suing the university newspaper, "The Lantern," for $860,000, the paper said.

Charles W. O'Brien claims results of the newspaper's investigation into university area housing, published Thursday, caused him "harassment, public embarrassment, mental distress and financial injury."

The Lantern replied it based its report on Commerce Department records, court records and sworn statements from O'Brien's tenants.

only $16 MILLION.

That was quite a deal.
Even in 1848.
Only problem was:
how would you raise
$16 million?

Well, thanks to people
taking stock in America, that problem was no problem. The government simply offered 20-year, six-percent Treasury Notes to the public.

The response was overwhelming.
Well, today's U.S.
Savings Bonds are even more attractive. A full 6% at only 5 years' maturity.
So join in America's Bicentennial Celebration
by buying U.S. Savings
Bonds where you work or bank.
It's a better deal than ever.

New U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year).
Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted until redemption.

Reds win French vote

PARIS (AP) — For the second weekend in a row, the Socialist-Communist alliance got more than 50 per cent of the vote in a nationwide French election.
Government spokesmen acknowledged the results of the two rounds of voting for 94 regional councils was a setback for President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's forces. But they contended local issues were of primary interest to the voters and that the outcome was not necessarily an indication of what would happen in the 1978 parliamentary elections.
The leftists claimed the vote was a true sign of national feeling.
Results from 1,775 of the 1,863 districts gave the leftist alliance 905 seats on the regional councils and the government coalition 870. A number of the districts still to be heard from usually vote Communist.
The figures included races decided March 7 in the first round of voting for the councils, which deal mainly with such matters as county budgets and public works.

Sheriff receives report of tire, mini-bike thefts

Both the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department investigated numerous crime reports over the weekend.
John C. Lamon of Birmingham Ala., told sheriff's deputies that while his truck was in Garner's Union 76 parking lot between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m., Sunday, two tires and wheels valued at $250 were taken from a storage rack under the tractor-trailer. A padlock had been cut to help gain entry to the trailer.
A mini-bike valued at $150 was reported stolen from the rear of the Clark W. Leeth residence, 5007 CCC-Highway-W. The object was stolen sometime between the hours of 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Leeth told sheriff's deputies.
Danny L. Merritt, 19, of Jeffersonville, was in the Jeffersonville Royal Blue Market Sunday when he was reportedly seen concealing a package of 79-cent cookies, and leave the store without paying for them. He was held by store officials and later arrested for shoplifting by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.
Mary Souther, aged 8, of Bloomingburg, was bitten by a dog near her residence at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.
Jack Alkire of 3821 Ohio 753 SE, told sheriff's deputies that sometime between Feb. 28 and March 7, a stormdoor window was broken, possibly by the wind.
A spare tire and wheel valued at $50 were reportedly taken from the bed of a pickup truck belonging to Richard L. Dennis of Sabina. The truck was parked in the Pennington Bakery parking lot between 4:30 a.m. and 8:15 a.m. Sunday.
Carolyn A. Wilson, 34, of 217½ East St., told police officers that while she was away from her residence between 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday, a clock radio and canned goods valued at $30 were taken from her home.
Harold J. McNeil, 39, of 518 Earl Ave., told police officers that a subject came to his door at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, asked questions about a neighbor's car, and when McNeil referred him to the neighbor, the subject kicked in the front door, causing $15 worth of damage.
Danny Manning, 20, of 803 Brodding St. was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital at 10:52 Saturday for a reported overdosing of aspirin and nerve pills, and was later released.
Helen Wilcox, aged 7, of 815 S. North St., was reported to have approached a stray dog near her residence, and was subsequently bitten in the right hand at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated and released.

Cool, dry weather was forecast for Ohio today. A ridge of high pressure moving from the upper Mississippi Valley across the lower Great Lakes was to bring cool temperatures and mostly sunny skies to the Buckeye State with highs in the 40s.
A new storm developing along the Gulf coast will bring an end to the fair weather pattern tonight.
The National Weather Service says this new storm will intensify and move rapidly northeastward. While the heaviest precipitation will be over the mountains of West Virginia and Maryland, some light snow is likely over southern Ohio tonight with a chance of snow to the north.
Snow is likely over the whole state Tuesday, possibly changing to rain in the extreme south. No rain or snow fell over the state last night and temperatures were mostly in the 30s.

Engineers to begin house poll

The engineers for the city sewer project will begin a house-to-house survey of Washington C.H. homes late this week or early next week.
Jerry Turner of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Worthington, said the survey will take several weeks to complete.
The engineers are seeking to determine the lay of sewer lines from each home. These may connect to trunk lines in the front, rear, or side of each residence.
Turner said the owners of the homes will be asked to tell the firm where the sanitary lines from their home connect with the main lines. If the resident does not know the course of his sewer lines, the engineers will request permission to enter the home.
Turner said that if the home has a basement, it would be easy to determine the direction of the sanitary lines. Other homes usually have a crawl-space which yields access to the sewer pipes.
In some cases where two or more trunk lines are possible outlets for the home sewage, the firm may request permission to dye-test the sewer. Turner said this is done by pouring a colored dye into the toilet and monitoring its flow in the main lines.
Residents will also be asked whether or not their home is prone to flooding during heavy rains.

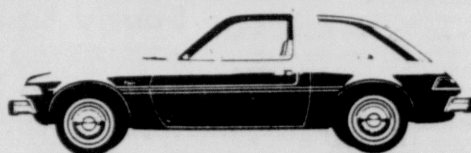

The efforts by the engineers to determine the layout of such lines are a vital part of the second phase of the sewer project. After the city's sewer network has been accurately diagrammed, the engineers can pinpoint which lines need to be rerouted in the new system.
Each member of the survey team will carry identification from the engineering firm.
The entire second phase of the project is expected to take 18 months, the first four months of which will be field work such as the survey.
Once detailed plans for the project have been completed, the construction of the new treatment plant and installation of new sanitary sewer lines can be let for bids.
The estimated cost of the project is $23.6 million.

Ohioans open trips to capital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Delegations of Ohio municipal officials and Ohio Farm Bureau Federation county leaders will converge on Washington this week but for different purposes.
At least 50 Ohio officials, headed by Toledo Mayor Harry Kessler, will attend the Congressional-City Conference sponsored by the National League of Cities and U.S. Conference of Mayors.
Kessler said the municipal leaders will press Congress for reenactment of Federal Revenue Sharing.
Unless Congress acts, the five year revenue sharing program will end Dec. 31, 1976, the Ohio Municipal League said, forcing Ohio to choose between either higher non-federal taxes or reductions in state and local services.
The county farm bureau leaders said they would engage in a "little old-fashioned voter relations" with their congressmen. The trip also includes a visit with President Gerald Ford at the White House on Tuesday, the federation said.

C. William Swank, OBFA executive vice president, said the farmers are expected to seek congressional support in opposing any future grain export embargo similar to 1975's ban on exports to the Soviet Union.
About 86 county presidents are expected to make the trip.
Both groups are expected to meet with members of Ohio's congressional delegation during their stay in Washington.

Body in WCH residence

County man found slain

By GEOFF MAVIS

A Fayette County man was found dead Sunday evening in a home on High Street, the apparent victim of a homicide, according to Washington C.H. police officers.

Raymond C. Reed, of 7048 Stafford Road, suffered gunshot wounds to the chest and abdomen, in addition to wounds on the side and back of his head, according to Fayette County Deputy Coroner Robert Heiny.

Reed, who had been staying with his brother Francis at the latter's residence on 642 High Street was found dead in the home by police officers who had been summoned there on an ill person report. The individual who called to report the incident was not identified.

Dr. Heiny arrived shortly after the police, and Reed was pronounced dead at approximately 10:30 p.m. Sunday, although the shooting occurred much earlier.

Police stayed on the scene until early Monday morning, questioning neighbors, and conducting an investigation throughout the home. According to area residents, Reed's brother Francis arrived at the home around midnight, unaware of what had taken place. He later informed neighbors that he would spend the night at an aunt's home.

A truck neighbors say belonged to the deceased was parked in front of the High Street residence.

The body of the 42-year-old county man was reportedly found in the living room of the house but police officers did not comment on whether or not the suspected murder weapon had been found.

The police are working on a number of leads at this time, and more detailed information may be available pending an autopsy report from the Hamilton County Coroner's office. Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification are assisting in the investigation.

Reed was employed at the Barnhart's Service Station as an office and credit manager for the past three and a half years. He had been a member of the armed services, and previous to his employment at Barnhart's, worked as an insurance agent.

The home on 642 High Street has been sealed off by police officers, and a no trespassing sign has been erected on the premises.

DEATH SCENE — Washington C.H. police officers found the body of Raymond C. Reed at this house on High Street Sunday night. Reed, a victim of several gunshot wounds, was living with his brother, Francis, at the residence. A sign on the door warns persons not to enter while police investigate the apparent homicide. The truck in front of the house was owned by the victim.

Probe Callaway bribe report

DENVER (AP) — The FBI has begun investigating the proposed expansion of a Colorado ski area controlled by Howard "Bo" Callaway.

U.S. Atty. James L. Treece says the probe began when an agent relayed to federal prosecutors a report that a bribe might have been paid. A newsman says the report originated with an anonymous telephone call he received.

Callaway took a voluntary leave of absence from his post as President Ford's campaign manager over the weekend after Sen. Floyd K. Haskell,

D Colo., announced that his Senate subcommittee will hold hearings on the resort at Crested Butte, Colo.

The Senate investigation was prompted not by allegations of bribery but by questions about a meeting last summer in which Callaway, then secretary of the Army, met with Forest Service officials in the Pentagon and asked that the ski area be allowed to expand, according to then-Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phillip Campbell.

Campbell says he was at the meeting.

The Forest Service is part of the Department of Agriculture.

The bribery allegations do not mention Callaway's name. But Treece said it was the possibility of bribery that gave the FBI a connection to the case. He said such a bribe would be a federal crime.

The bribery allegations apparently originated with a newsman who said he was told by an anonymous caller that $135,000 had been paid. The alleged recipient denied it and said he called for the investigation. The newsman said he would not have even printed the story had officials not begun an investigation.

On Sunday, Simon Tullai, assistant agent-in-charge of the Denver FBI office, confirmed that the FBI was investigating the case but refused further comment. "We were told back at headquarters to refer questions to the U.S. attorney's office," Tullai said.

Callaway said he is confident there has been no impropriety. He said he asked to be relieved because he feels Ford's reputation of openness, honesty and integrity makes it "important to go the extra mile." Ford said in Greensboro, N.C., that he was relieving Callaway at Callaway's request.

Like almost all Rocky Mountain ski resorts, Crested Butte operates on public land and its owners pay the government royalties.

The controversy began after the Crested Butte Development Corp., in which Callaway owns the controlling interest, applied to the Forest Service for inclusion of Mt. Snodgrass, adjacent to the present area.

Neil Edstrom, then the service's district ranger in the Gunnison National Forest, drafted a report last summer recommending disapproval. He also wrote in a letter on Jan. 20, 1975, to Ralph Walton, the resort's president and Callaway's brother-in-law, that "ski area development is essentially an irreversible commitment of resources which we do not feel is necessary at this time."

Last summer, Callaway met with Forest Service officials in his Pentagon office and asked that the expansion be allowed, Campbell said.

No action has been taken on the requested expansion. The Forest Service last month approved a request by the Gunnison County Commission for a six-month delay before an environmental impact statement is filed.

Congress eyes status of U.S. capital district

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking up the question of whether the Constitution should be amended to give the District of Columbia two senators and a share of representatives in the House.

The House is scheduled Tuesday to take up the amendment, proposed by the District's nonvoting delegate, Walter E. Fauntroy.

On the same day, the Senate is to begin debate on its version of legislation to reconstitute the Federal Election Commission and thus assure the continuation of the government campaign law.

By the terms of a Supreme Court decision, the commission must be re-established as a body of presidential appointees or lose its authority to handle campaign funds. The court originally set a March 1 deadline and then extended it to March 22, which Congress now cannot meet. However, handlers of the legislation say a brief interruption in the flow of campaign contributions would not seriously hamper candidates.

Before the election bill debate, the Senate is to take up a bill designed to strengthen enforcement powers of government agencies that administer cleanliness standards in food processing plants.

Meanwhile, the House was to take up a compromise measure to settle a long controversy over financing child day-care centers. It would continue until July 1 a suspension of strict staffing standards ordered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and provide $125 million in additional federal funds to help meet the requirements.

The House will vote Wednesday on arrangements to escort the Magna Carta from Britain to this country for Bicentennial observances. A confused series of parliamentary moves and votes last week resulted in defeat of a resolution setting up the arrangements. The vote also resulted in some embarrassment to congressional leaders who thought the details had been worked out with their British counterparts.

The proposed constitutional amendment for the District of Columbia would not make a state of the capital city but would grant it full voting rights — two senators, and, on the basis of a population of about 750,000, two representatives.

In terms of population, the District is larger than 10 states, according to the 1970 census.

An amendment ratified in 1961 gave District citizens for the first time a voice in presidential elections. In 1973, limited home rule was authorized, with an elected mayor and council. But Congress retained veto powers and control of the District budget.

The representation amendment, like all constitutional changes, would require a two-thirds vote in each chamber and then ratification by three-quarters of the states. Supporters were especially gloomy about the chances in the Senate because of resistance to increasing the number of Senators.

PATRIOTIC ADDITION — This 44-by-83 inch hand-crocheted American flag is a colorful and patriotic addition to the Court View Restaurant, 149 N. Main St. Made by Mrs. Lizzie Eakins, it is a duplicate of Betsy Ross' original 13-star American banner.

Son requests flag

Who can turn down a son's request? Mrs. Lizzie Eakins certainly couldn't, so when her son, Dale Eakins, owner of the Court View Restaurant, 149 North Main, asked her to duplicate a flag he'd seen, she agreed to do so. Mrs. Eakins, who works in her son's restaurant, said she only worked on the hand-crocheted flag in the evenings and it took her three weeks to complete it.

The 44-by-83 inch 13-star-flag can be seen displayed at the Court View Restaurant. Mrs. Eakins, who crochets

but doesn't knit, said that the only pattern she had for the flag was a designed for knitting pattern but she used it anyway.

"It's not for sale," Mrs. Eakins said. "Only for decoration. My son wanted me to make it so I did."

Ford rips Demos on failure to okay tax-share extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today accused the Democratic-controlled Congress of threatening the nation's cities with disaster by failing to approve an extension of the revenue-sharing program.

Speaking to a meeting of some 2,000 municipal officials, Ford also chided Congress for being slow in providing supplemental money for an existing public jobs program while defending his veto of the $6-billion public works bill which Congress unsuccessfully tried to override.

Ford said revenue-sharing must be renewed this year but "Congress did not share my sense of urgency. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Congress fails to understand the importance of this program to the people of the cities, and counties and states of our nation."

"Failure to renew this program would weaken the fiscal stability of our cities. You know that expiration of this program, or a reduction in the payments you now receive, would mean cutbacks in essential services, increased public and related private sector unemployment, or the imposition of more taxes."

Ford's attack on Congress followed criticism from some municipal leaders who blamed both the White House and Congress for failing to extend revenue-sharing.

In a news conference Sunday opening the annual legislative conference of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities, Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans said the stalemate was leaving the cities "on the brink of chaos."

Landrieu applauded Ford for proposing an extension of revenue-sharing but said even Ford has "failed to realize the impact that inflation is having on our general revenue-sharing funds."

"At the same time, we must also point out that other actions by the President jeopardize the re-enactment of this vital program," Landrieu, a Democrat and head of the mayors' conference, said.

"President Ford, by vetoing some 46 pieces of legislation, has created such a climate in Washington between the Democratic majority of the Congress and the Republican administration that the revenue-sharing program is being held hostage."

"It is ironic that the Democratic Congress, in order to deal with a Republican administration, is prepared to cut off the nose of the cities to get even with a Republican administration."

The general revenue-sharing program, heart of former President Richard M. Nixon's "New Federalism," has pumped more than $30 billion into state and local governments since enactment in 1972.

However, the program expires Dec. 31 unless Congress can come up with an extension. Ford proposed a 5 1/4-year extension of almost $40 billion, a slight increase in funding but one which city officials say is inadequate.

The Ford package was submitted almost a year ago but is still in a House Government operations subcommittee which last Thursday cut the program back to 3 1/4 years and froze the level of funding.

BMV shortages probed

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) ignored written warnings about the accounts of deputy auto registrar John M. Keller in Lebanon that might have avoided an estimated $90,650 shortage, the Chronicle-Telegram said today in a copyrighted story.

The afternoon newspaper said the instance of warnings and lack of action was similar to that in the case of Elyria deputy car tag registrar Anthony J. Marsico, in which records show the majority of the $320,000 he admitted stealing was taken after the warnings.

The BMV closed the Keller agency Dec. 31, 1974. It announced in mid-March that Keller's accounts for the years of 1973 and 1974 were short $90,650. The figure was one of five shortages totaling $660,000 announced by the bureau at the time, including the Marsico sum.

The Chronicle-Telegram said the state auditor's office nearly has completed a formal audit of the Keller agency in which preliminary figures indicate about $90,000 missing. It said Lebanon police expect to present the case to a Warren County grand jury in May.

Keller became deputy registrar in January 1971 and was having trouble with his accounts by the end of 1972, the paper said. It said the bureau sent between 50 and 70 debit memorandums to Keller seeking sums typically $20 to $40 and, in four such memos early in 1973, demanded $7,566 it said was due on his 1972 business.

The total, estimated by the BMV to be $11,000 for 1972 business, was paid by June 1973, the paper said.

Besides the memos, a field representative began a series of written reports to the bureau warning of what he termed "serious problems" in the Keller operation, the paper said that official told a reporter last week.

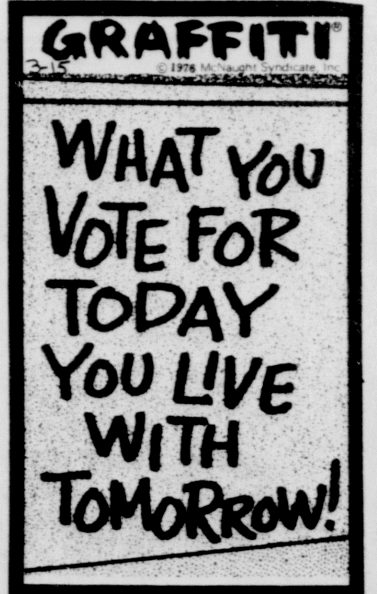

The official asked for anonymity, saying, "I've been harassed unbelievably this past year," the paper said.

He also told of giving oral warnings to the Warren County Democratic party chief, Cecil Limkeous, the paper said. It said Limkeous refused to discuss the matter with its reporter.

The field representative said he gave the bureau written reports at least four times in 1973 and 1974 and that "nothing much happened," though his boss held private talks with Keller, the paper said. It said the field agent said he was excluded deliberately at least once "because my boss said he could talk better to Keller alone since they were brothers in the same fraternal organization."

In the Marsico case, similar oral and written warnings were given to the bureau and to Lorain County Democratic officials responsible for his appointment, the paper said. Marsico is serving a prison sentence. Sentencing is pending for a Lorain man, Eddie Goodwin, who pleaded guilty to receiving some of the stolen money, and a former Oberlin teacher, Kenneth Gallatin of Rocky River, was indicted last week by a Lorain County grand jury which charged him with larceny by trick and receiving stolen property.

Sadat tearing up Russian treaty

CAIRO (AP) — The Soviet Union has suffered another setback in the Middle East with President Anwar Sadat's announcement that he is tearing up the 1971 Soviet-Egyptian treaty of friendship and cooperation.

The Egyptian People's Assembly meets this afternoon to discuss Sadat's proposal that it nullify the 15-year treaty. The Assembly's approval is a certainty.

Among the results could be an end to the use of Egyptian ports by Soviet naval ships and competition by the United States, Britain and France to supply the arms Egypt can no longer get from the Soviet Union.

There was no immediate reaction from Moscow. But the controlled Soviet press has long been critical of Sadat's cooperation with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's negotiations to foster peace between the Arabs and Israel.

In a three-hour speech to the assembly Sunday night, Sadat said the "Soviet Union is exerting military and economic pressures on Egypt to force me to bow to their demands, something that I will not do."

"All the Soviet arms in Egypt, including aircraft, will become mere scrap in a year or 18 months" because

Candidates await Illinois primary election ballots

CHICAGO (AP) — President Ford looked for another victory, Ronald Reagan braced for another defeat and the Republican rivals left the campaign arena to Democratic contestants today on the eve of the Illinois presidential primary election.

It was the fifth leg of the White House relay race and among Democrats, a man who wasn't running, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, loomed over the field as he sought to reassert the dominance he once enjoyed in Illinois presidential politicking.

Ford managers professed to be more concerned about overconfidence than about the ballot-box impact of a budding controversy over Howard H. Callaway, Ford's suspended campaign manager. Callaway faces an investigation of his role in pressing while secretary of the Army for expansion of the federal land leased to a Colorado ski resort he and his brother-in-law control.

Reagan took a campaign breather and awaited the returns in seclusion in California, after saying he would be satisfied to gain 40 per cent of the Illinois popular vote and about one-sixth of the 96 nominating delegates at stake in the primary.

Ford concluded his personal campaigning Friday. His manager, former

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, said the President would win by a 2-1 margin in the presidential preference vote, which is purely for show.

Ogilvie said he was aiming to win 80 of the 96 GOP delegates for Ford.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, who has won three of the four presidential primaries so far; Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace; Sargent Shriver; and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred R. Harris are the entries in the Democratic popularity contest.

But Daley, promoting delegate slates committed to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III as a favorite son candidate, hopes to lead more than 100 of the state's 169 delegates when they go to New York City in July to choose a presidential nominee.

Whatever happens in Tuesday's election, the delegates will in fact be free to vote any way they want at the national convention. Under state law, they are not bound to back the candidate for whom they are listed on the ballot.

And for the Democrats who will be here long after the presidential parade has passed by, the real contest Tuesday was the primary battle between Gov. Daniel Walker and Secretary of State Michael Howlett, Daley's candidate for the governorship.

Wallace staged the most intensive of the campaign windup performances, with appearances slated today in Chicago and three other cities on the way to a final rally in Springfield.

Carter was appearing in Chicago, as was Shriver, a candidate in desperate need of a big showing to pull back from the brink of political collapse after fractional shares of the vote in the first four primary states.

Daley, a national Democratic power for two decades, lost his clout to reformers four years ago but was out to rebuild it in this campaign. He was virtually guaranteed command of 59 Chicago delegates and was backing candidates to expand his corps of national convention votes past the 100 mark.

Carter, Wallace and Walker, a Daley foe, all are trying to win delegates, too. Walker promoted uncommitted delegates as an alternative to those aligned with Daley. Shriver and Harris hoped to pick off at least a few of the convention delegates. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, winner in the Massachusetts presidential primary two weeks ago, bypassed the Illinois campaign.

Carter said on the CBS program "Face the Nation" Sunday that he hopes to run first in the preferential primary and capture at least 21 delegates.

Wallace, on the ABC program "Issues and Answers," said he expects to do well but declined to say what that means. He also said an Illinois defeat would not be fatal to his campaign, battered last Tuesday by Carter's upset victory in the Florida primary.

The Alabama governor said he thinks he'll have at least 400 nominating delegates when the Democrats convene next summer.

He said he believes he can support the Democratic nominee — but then added that wouldn't necessarily apply to Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona. Udall has said he would bolt the Democratic party before he would support a Wallace ticket. Udall isn't running in Illinois.

From the Republican candidates there was silence. Reagan's goal seemed to be to play down Illinois and wait for the North Carolina primary one Tuesday hence in hopes he can make a stand there after losing narrowly to Ford in New Hampshire and Florida. The President also won virtually uncontested primary races in Massachusetts and Vermont.

With Callaway temporarily sidelined as Ford's campaign manager, a Justice Department spokesman said Sunday night the FBI is looking into Callaway's involvement in the expansion of the ski resort near Crested Butte, Colo.

In Denver, U.S. Atty. James L. Treece said Sunday night that the FBI is looking into the possibility that a bribe might have been paid to get U.S. Forest Service approval of the plan to expand the resort.

There was no indication Callaway was involved in the bribe offer.

In other political developments:

—Jackson, appearing on the NBC program "Meet the Press," renewed his criticism of what he called "the giveaway aspects" of U.S. detente with the Soviet Union. He said he doesn't want confrontation but that he does want tough bargaining.

Rail employe changes needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employees of railroads involved in the federal railroad reorganization must become employees of Conrail in order to qualify for employee protection benefits enacted by Congress, an Ohio congressman says.

U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, said employees of affected railroads have until March 15 to decide whether they are going to accept employment with the new Consolidated Rail Corporation.

Brown said he sought clarification of the issue after his office received numerous inquiries from railroad workers seeking an explanation of their rights and options under the 1973 act. Employees accepting employment with Conrail by the deadline will be eligible for employment protection benefits enacted by Congress to assist displaced or transferred Conrail personnel.

Those notifying Conrail they do not wish employment will be denied such benefits, Brown said.

Stocks take sharp dip

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, continuing Friday's slide.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped more than 3 points in the early going. Losers opened up a lead of better than 2 to 1 over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market's drop Friday seemed to convince some investors that prices were due for a pullback after their sharp rise through the first 10 weeks of the year.

They also noted some uncertainty over the decision by France to withdraw from the joint float system of European currencies.

Today's early prices included RCA, up 1/4 at 27 1/4; Philip Morris, unchanged at 51 1/4, and General Motors, 3/4 lower at 67 3/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 15.67 to 987.64, cutting its gain for the week to 14.72 points.

UAW sees job security major issue

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers union officials say most of the talk may be about job security Thursday when some 3,000 UAW delegates gather here for the union's collective bargaining convention.

Many members of the giant—750,000 member—union are worried about their jobs and will be seeking job security almost as avidly as they sought fatter pay checks in the past.

Some 53,000 auto workers are still out of work due to the massive slump that hit the auto industry beginning in 1973.

"Our people are damn concerned about job security," said UAW Vice President Ken Bannon. "Our experience during the life of this contract has not been a healthy one. We've had 2 1/2 years of steady decline and we're just now seeing a gradual recovery."

Another union leader, Vice President Douglas Fraser, echoed those remarks. "When we're at the bargaining table—no matter how prosperous we are by then—we will not forget the (recent) hard times," he vowed.

Some 200,000 auto workers were without jobs during the worst part of the auto slump, caused by the one-two punch of the gasoline shortage and the economic recession.

One tactic the union might take to get members back to work is a shorter work week.

Hearst trial windup slated this week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Government rebuttal testimony in Patricia Hearst's bank robbery trial was expected to resume today when Miss Hearst, nearly recovered from a bout with the flu, returns to court.

"Every indication is she will be in court Monday," defense attorney Albert Johnson said Sunday. "She told me she's improved, although she still has some aching and congestion."

Court sessions were canceled last Thursday and Friday when the 22-year-old newspaper heiress fell ill and was returned to her San Mateo County Jail cell to recuperate.

Dr. Harry Kozol, a Boston psychiatrist who interviewed Miss Hearst for the prosecution, was on the stand last week and is expected to continue testifying today as the trial

Malik injured in auto crash

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union has been hospitalized in this Long Island community with possible broken ribs after an automobile accident that claimed one life and critically injured another person.

The crash Sunday night also put Malik's wife, Valentina, 50, in the Community Hospital intensive care unit with multiple abrasions and possible internal injuries. Four others were admitted.

enters its eighth, and perhaps final, week.

Kozol's controversial Jan. 7 examination of Miss Hearst was the subject of a three-day pretrial hearing. The defense tried to prevent further examination by the psychiatrist, whom Miss Hearst said had bullied her to hysterical tears with accusing questions.

However, Kozol disputed virtually all her contentions, and U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter ordered Miss Hearst to submit to further examination by Kozol.

Since last week, Miss Hearst's physical condition has become nearly as much an issue as her mental condition because it has slowed down her already protracted trial.

Jail officials reported Saturday and Sunday that Miss Hearst was improved and said she was resting comfortably without fever.

But Johnson said Sunday that Miss Hearst is "a rundown person. She was rundown before the trial, and she's more rundown now. She weighed herself the other day and is down to 92 pounds."

The Boston attorney said it is unlikely Miss Hearst will be called to the witness stand during defense rebuttal. But he said it hasn't been decided whether her parents — Randolph A. Hearst, president of the San Francisco Examiner, and Catherine Hearst, a University of California regent — will be called.

Opinion And Comment

Mansfield bowing out

Sen. Mike Mansfield's announcement that he will retire when his present term ends in January rally does justify those "mixed feelings" so often trotted out on such occasions. He has served the nation exceptionally well, for the past 15 years as Senate majority leader. Yet he is 73 years old, and slowing down. Age has this effect on every man in time, but some balk at accepting this as Mansfield has done with notable grace. It would be well if others similarly situated were to follow his example.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

Danger in TV election returns

On Tuesday night, March 9, I finished a seminar at 7:30 and went to get my coat. As I was turning off the lights in my office, one of my students rushed up and said, "Carter has won 42 per cent in Florida!" Looking at my watch, I noted that many of the polls hadn't yet closed and asked for the source - "The CBS check of key precincts." Although it was unexpected, it was pleasure to know George Wallace had been beaten. . . But then came the recollection of the Massachusetts version of the CBS poll of "key precincts," which had Morris Udall winning. My student told me that Wallace received 30 percent and Scoop Jackson 18.

Politics must bow to the "Adams

Chronicles," but at 10 p.m. we tuned in and discovered that the "key precincts" seemed to be having some problems: Carter was down to about 37 percent, Wallace stable, but Jackson had moved up to 20. (My wife speculated that this might be caused by the traditionally late returns from urban areas with machines!) We went to bed and wakened Wednesday morning to discover that in the final tally Carter had received 34 percent, Wallace, 31, and Jackson 24. The New York Times managed to keep Udall in the race with a subhead: "Udall Fourth"; actually he was sixth with 2 percent.

Now fun is fun, but this nonsense should be stopped. Do you realize the margin of error between the original Carter figure and the final results? Unless my math is hopelessly defective it was about 25 percent - as was the Jackson miscall. Moreover, the original computation and Carter beating Jackson by a margin of 7-3; the final results brought this down to less than 3-2. One can only speculate on the feedback CBS' original prediction may have generated; that is, the number of people who heard it, and were subsequently influenced by it in the polling booths.

Actually the real story of the night - which I hope someone caught - was that Jackson, who gave Florida marginal concern and had little organization, got a higher percentage of the vote there (24 percent) than he did in Massachusetts (22.6 per cent) with a thoroughly organized campaign! And an interesting sidebar was that "no preference" (3 percent) came out ahead of all the miscellaneous characters, (Shapp, Shriver, Bayh, Udall, Harris, et al.).

Let us hope that between Florida and Illinois, the New York Times and CBS analysts will go back to the drawing board. Without making any direct accusation, the evidence to date suggests that their "key precincts" have a mysterious allergy to Scoop Jackson. But leaving that aside, British experience indicates - as I pointed out here in connection with their last General Election - that voters take delight in lying to pollsters who greet them as they emerge from the booth and ask them who they picked. On this basis one British authority gave Labor a 100-seat majority in Commons early in the evening - by the time Labor's margin had gotten down to 3, he quietly vanished.

On the Republican side, President Ford put the fourth nail in Ronald Reagan's coffin. Despite the fact that I think Reagan would be easier for a Democrat to beat in November, I am glad. In my judgment, character is fate; and whatever our political differences, Mr. Ford strikes me as a straight arrow. On the other hand, when I first saw Reagan in action in the late 40s - he was then a leading light in the Southern California branch of Americans for Democratic Action - I thought he was a mechanical man with no depth of conviction. Today his conservatism comes through in the same fashion; indeed, I have speculated on occasion that his politics are in his wife's name. His ADA-period wife was a solid liberal; his present one, a convinced conservative.

Finally, since I recently patted myself on the back for correctly calling the Massachusetts primary, I feel the obligation to use my Rube Goldberg machine and boot myself in the duff for overestimating Wallace's clout in Florida. Perhaps Wallaceism is a one-time malady like chicken pox: Once you have had it, you are thereafter immune. I trust this is the case: Michigan will be the real laboratory. As for Carter, I am unrepentant: I'm sure that down deep inside he is shallow.

Ohio assembly again studies utility rates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Another chapter in the longest-running story in the legislature opens Tuesday when a House panel begins wrestling with a utility rate return bill that is under fire from groups on both sides of the complex issue.

The same House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee ran into all sorts of problems earlier this year with a similar bill. State senators subsequently passed their own version of legislation repealing the Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) formula, but a House subcommittee made several significant changes before adding its approval last week.

The Senate sponsor, John T. McCormack, D-31 Euclid, sharply attacked his House colleagues for what he viewed as proutility concessions. His blast so angered House Democrats that Utilities Chairman William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, said he would invite McCormack to testify in opposition to his own bill. McCormack declined.

The Senate reconvenes tonight with action on several bills slated, including a measure that would permit hospitals to provide accommodations for visitors who are blind and accompanied by guide dogs.

House members go to the floor Tuesday for a vote on a bill that would set standards for licensing of occupational therapists and therapy assistants. Also scheduled is legislation that would revise procedures for licensing of optometrists.

Ohio Perspective

Efforts to repeal equal rights approval continue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two resolutions that would rescind Ohio's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment for women haven't gone anywhere during the current legislative session, but supporters are still hopeful.

"This issue is not going to be forgotten," insists Rep. John P. Wargo, D-2 Lisbon, who introduced a repealer last March 27. A similar measure was put forth the same day by Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee.

Neither resolution has been granted a hearing or even referred to a standing committee. Both sponsors concede that no action will be taken this year with only about six weeks left in the regular session and an election pending.

That was the message they conveyed to a group of about 75 women, opposed to ERA, who showed up at the Statehouse last week to lobby for repeal. But the legislators urged them to drum up support for a renewed effort when the 112th General Assembly convenes next January.

The women, members of Eagle Forum and the Committee to Rescind ERA, want the legislature to appoint a task force to study the legality of rescinding state approval of the proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Legal questions have been raised about successful resolutions to rescind

ERA approval in Tennessee and Nebraska.

"The proponents of ERA are arrogantly claiming that a state legislature is locked into their decision once ERA gains legislative approval," said Ann Kitzmiller of Eagle Forum. "However, on the other side of the coin, if a state legislature rejects this superfluous amendment, the issue is considered again and again."

Mrs. Kitzmiller of Lancaster made the remarks in a statement for the House Reference Committee which has not acted on the Wargo and Galbraith resolutions.

Wargo thinks the legality of rescinding ERA has been sufficiently established by legal opinions and that the task force would not be necessary.

The Columbiana County lawmaker is opposed to the women's rights law because it "goes far beyond what was originally intended." He claims the amendment would legitimize homosexual marriages and wreck labor laws aimed at protecting women.

"When they talk to their constituents," Wargo said of his fellow legislators, "after the election, they're going to come back with different feelings."

Rep. Mike Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, who sponsored the ratification resolution when it was approved in February of 1974, says the opponents are still a distinct minority.

Protestants approve the right to die

DEAR READERS: I have signed The Living Will, a document that simply states that if I should become terminally ill, and my physician concludes that there is no reasonable hope for my recovery, I do not wish to be kept alive by artificial means. In other words, "when God calls me home, let me go."

Copies of that document have been given to my physician, my lawyer, my rabbi and my immediate family. I have no fear that someone will try to "do me in" before my time.

I wrote to Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, asking him to state the Protestant view on a person's right to die with dignity. His response follows:

DEAR ABBY,

As to the official Protestant point of view on the right to die with dignity, as far as I know, there is none.

The reason is that Protestantism is fragmented into denominations and there is a variety of opinions on this issue. The very name "protestant" indicates the absence of uniformity.

My judgement is that the prevailing view would be that God alone should determine life and death. The individual should be in the hands of God, who gave life and whose function it is to take it.

There are increasing numbers who might question this view in certain circumstances, but I should think that the great majority of Protestants would subscribe to the above.

I read you constantly. You are good for what ails America. Keep it going. You're the greatest.

God bless you every day all the way. Cordially,

NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

TUESDAY, MARCH 16

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

A new surge of vitality should mark this day, and your cooperation with stellar forces can net considerable reward. Don't overpress: just be on time - and with the right implements.

You will need a good sense of perspective to cope with this day's intricacies and complexities. Your innate ingenuity should help, however.

At times, however, you seem to lose confidence in yourself and, unless prodded by others, become stymied in your efforts to reach the lofty goals to which you aspire. Try to build up your confidence and realize that when the highly capable Piscean is at his best, no one can outdo him. You are suited to a career in art, music, literature or the entertainment world; may have a great interest in the occult.

WASHINGTON REPORT From WILLIAM H. HARSHA Representative To Congress 6th District, Ohio

Our nation's soaring national debt continues to make very little impression on the perennial supporters of foreign aid in Congress. They remain steadfast in their determination to give away to other countries what we do not have to give.

The House last week passed its Fiscal Year 1976 foreign aid appropriations bill, which provides gifts and loans worth $4.9 billion—plus several hundred million for the transitional period. This bounty of military and economic aid represents a 35 per cent increase over last's foreign giveaway program.

Aside from the failure of this annual ritual to gain us friends abroad, our pressing domestic priorities and an impending $75 billion budget deficit make it imperative that we stop this endless outflow of American tax dollars.

With our enormous national debt, Congress simply must, at some point, come to the realization that this kind of spending has to stop. Our foreign aid program is unquestionably a primary contributor to our national debt.

In 1950, the gold holdings of the United States amounted to nearly $23 billion. Today, these holdings have shrunk to about $11.6 billion.

Also in 1950, the short-term dollar claims against our nation were over $8.5 billion. And yet, today, these short-term claims stand at an astounding $93 billion-plus. All of which tells us that while our assets have dwindled each year, the debt owed us by other nations for foreign aid packages have grown decidedly.

We have certainly done far more than our share in aiding the governments of nations in distress. Since the end of World War II, the United States has contributed about $200 billion in aid to some 140 nations.

We almost singlehandedly rebuilt post-war Europe. Our contribution was great, but all too often has been forgotten or purposely ignored by many beneficiaries of our compassion and generosity.

During House consideration of the foreign aid appropriations bill, an amendment was offered to strike funds for the United Nations Development Program. I supported the amendment, but unfortunately, it was rejected.

Earlier appropriations committee hearings had revealed that the United Nations Development Program employs over 1,000 personnel in its headquarters and field operations. On top of that, UNDP hired another 9,801 experts in 1974.

We in this country are all too familiar with government bureaucracy and the staggering costs of maintaining such a bureaucracy. Given our track record in this area, we certainly do not need to take over the expense of some top-heavy international bureaucracy which doles out funds to the likes of Cuba, Bulgaria, Albania, and other Communist states.

As one House member put it during debate on the amendment: "It seems perfectly all right for many members of the House who enjoy cocktail parties and hospitality at the Tower of Babel on the East River to tell us that we not only should not cut money, but we should increase spending so that we can give away still more of the taxpayers' money to the United Nations."

With Americans paying about 35 to 40 percent of their income in taxes to all levels of government, this business of pouring revenues into an ineffective and increasingly anti-American organization like the United Nations is the very height of carelessness and irresponsibility.

House approval of this multi-billion-dollar foreign giveaway program was both unwise and untimely. The foreign aid burden has become a heavy one for Americans to bear.

It seems to be an endless exercise, and from the standpoint of effectiveness, it has been a fruitless one as well.

Lobbyist faces new charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time, the federal government is accusing former Gulf Oil Corp. lobbyist Claude C. Wild Jr. of approving illegal payments of company funds to political candidates.

A federal grand jury indicted Wild on Friday on felony charges that he "did willfully and unlawfully consent" to contributing $5,000 to the 1974 campaign of Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and $2,500 to the 1972 campaign of Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga.

The charges carry a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine for conviction on each count.

Depositions in connection with a government suit against Gulf named Wild, 52, as the company official who decided how much money should go to which political candidate.

It was the first indictment in eight months secured by lawyers from the Watergate Special Prosecutor's office.

Wild in 1972 became one of the first corporate officials charged with making an illegal campaign contribution. He pleaded guilty on Nov. 13, 1973, to a misdemeanor charge of illegally contributing Gulf money to the campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon and was fined $1,000. Gulf also pleaded guilty to a similar charge at that time and was fined $5,000.

Production employment dips

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Production employment in Ohio was down 4 per cent in January from the same month in 1975, Ohio State University's center for business and economic research reported.

The center said all eight major city-county areas surveyed showed January-to-January employment drops.

Agricultural, governmental and public education employees are not included in the center's production worker category.

The regional declines ranged from a low of 2 per cent in both Cincinnati (Hamilton County) and Toledo (Lucas County) to 7 per cent in Canton (Stark County) and Youngstown (Mahoning County), and included: Akron (Summit County) and Dayton (Montgomery County), 3 per cent; Columbus (Franklin County), 5 per cent; and

Cleveland (Cuyahoga County), 6 per cent.

On an industry by industry basis, Ohio construction workers suffered most, as employment in that sector showed a 21 per cent January-to-January decline. All manufacturing industries reported a 6 per cent employment drop in the same comparison, while Ohio mine and quarry employment was down only fractionally, the center said.

Employment levels were higher in January from the same month a year ago in three industrial categories: textiles, up 2 per cent; miscellaneous manufacturing, 1 per cent; and stone, clay and glass products, where a fractional increase was noted.

The center also noted the number of man hours worked by Ohio production workers was down in January from January 1975.

Auxiliary contributes to funds

Highlighting the spring calendar for the local Veterans of World War I organizations will be the District 7 meeting, April 25, to be held at Grace United Methodist Church according to announcement made Thursday evening to members of Fayette County Auxiliary no. 2291 meeting in the American Legion Hall. Both Auxiliary and Barracks members will join in welcoming the delegations from Columbus, Delaware, Gahanna, Newark and Fairfield counties.

During the round table discussion Mrs. Nellie Kennedy presided. In charge of the opening ceremonies were Mrs. Calvin Johnson, chaplain pro tem, and Mrs. Cloyce Copley, conductress protem.

Following the Pledge of Allegiance, various reports were given and communications were read. Remembered were shutins and the birthdays of Mrs. Paul Strevey and Mrs. Eunice Draper. Members voted to contribute to both the Prayer Breakfast program and the Heart Fund. In line with spurring on the 1976 membership campaign, Mrs. Kennedy alerted the group of the worthwhile awards being offered to organizations and members qualifying for the most reinstated and new members.

Mrs. Allen Sells, legislative chairman, projected a discussion on the outlook this year for a better pension program for veterans and widows. She further brought out how vital and important a writing campaign is at this time to congressmen to support a measure earmarked to benefit the aging veteran whose limited income cannot cope with present day prices. She again cited the bill S880 by Senator McGovern and co-sponsors which provides a general pension similar to one veterans have been seeking.

As a concluding feature of the evening Mrs. Sells added a little humor toward growing old by reciting Charles E. King's poem "Rhyme to Pass Away the Time".

Members adjourned to meet on April 8th in the American Legion Hall.

Class of 1926 plans for 50th reunion

19th. Various committees were selected to handle the details for the social hour and dinner.

To further carry out preparations another meeting has been scheduled for Friday, April 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Case, 330 Jupiter Street. As many classmates as possible are urged to attend and offer their suggestions in making this reunion an event to remember.

In addition to Mr. Dellinger those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Case, Mrs. Clark Pensyl, Mrs. Albert Caplinger, Mrs. Frank Boylan, Mrs. Clarence Hackett, Miss Frances White, Miss Mary Frances Snider, Herbert Perrill, Loren Johnson and Arleigh Rankin.

Hobby Club display articles

Plans for the Bicentennial and activities for the year were discussed by the Fayette County Hobby Club when they met Friday evening in the VFW Hall, W. Elm St., for the first meeting in 1976. Three new members, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bock and Earl Coil, were welcomed to the club.

Mrs. Stella Bottenfield gave the invocation preceding the carry-in supper. Nathaniel Tway, president of the club, presided, and read minutes from a meeting held in 1948. Members told of recent trips, and Mrs. Florence Bethards read the poem, "The Whistler."

Interesting articles on display were an old hymnal formerly used in the Mount Carmel Church, two scrapbooks-one with clippings and one with photos, and a miniature phonograph. The next meeting will be held April 9 in the VFW Hall, W. Elm St.

DON'T let the weather cheat you of all your fragrance potential. When you plan to be outdoors all day, dab on a bit more scent. Outdoor breezes carry off fragrance faster than indoor still air. Warm weather helps bring out the character in a scent; cold weather doesn't encourage its staying power. DON'T expect any fragrance to develop its full qualities for at least ten minutes after you've applied it. It takes this much time for the alcohol in any fragrance to evaporate and for the oils in the perfume to combine with your skin oils.

Southern State offers horse management class

WILMINGTON — Southern State College will offer a course in horse management for the first time this spring quarter, which begins March 29. The class will meet at Southern State's north campus in Wilmington on the former Clinton County Air Force Base. Phillip Karns, D.V.M., will teach the course. Dr. Karns, a Dayton veterinarian who limits his practice to horses, said the course is designed for persons who work with or own horses and want to know how to prevent problems rather than treat them. Proper care and disease prevention will be stressed. The course will not deal with horseback riding and training methods.

Subjects to be covered include equine history, breeds and classes of horses, anatomy, behavior, selection and conformation, and health maintenance. The class will meet one evening a week for 11 weeks, with the possible inclusion of field trips.

Dr. Karns is a graduate of Ohio State University with a B.S. in animal science. He received his veterinary training from the Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine. Dr. Karns has been involved with livestock management for 30 years, concentrating on horses for the past ten.

Enrollment for horse management and other spring quarter courses at Southern State College will continue through March 26, followed by late registration through April 2. Call the north campus at 382-6645 or the south campus at 695-4421 for admissions and financial aid information.

The American Rental Association is composed of over 1,900 member stores, and 300 associate members who are primarily manufacturers that supply equipment for the industry. The association serves as a central outlet of information, ideas, materials and services to its members. A.R.A. headquarters are located in Moline, Illinois.

Columbus swimmer plans ocean swim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Suburban Columbus swimmer Walter Poenisch plans to assault his own world long distance ocean swim record this summer, surpassing the 90.75 miles he set in 1972.

Poenisch, 62, of Grove City, said he planned to leave for Florida in one or two weeks for about two months of training before he makes the swim.

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For those who have watched past flirtations with 1,000 points on the Dow Jones industrial average, there have been few surprises over the past few weeks. The market has behaved as expected.

Those who were unpleasantly surprised by its failure to remain in four-digit territory appear to have too easily forgotten the character, the personality of the market. It is indeed a flirt; the term is no misnomer.

Every time in the past 10 years that it has come into the presence of 1,000 points — that is, within 50 points or so — it has moved erratically, trifling and toying and winking and misleading the investor.

When the average broke 1,000 points and stayed above that mark last Thursday, many an investor was fully prepared for a direct and sudden move to follow in the opposite direction, because that is how it has behaved in the past.

Even sophisticated investors forgot this, however, and they believed the promoters and hucksters who assured them that the very next challenge to the market was its old high of 1,051.70 points on Jan. 11, 1973.

Instead, the market retreated 15.67 points, all the way back down to 987.64 on Friday, from 1,003.31 points on Thursday. And so, this week begins with the flirtation still going on.

How much longer will it continue? Quite likely it won't last much longer. Everyone gets tired of a flirt; the glamor, the attraction, the mystique wears off, and then the boredom sets in.

There are too many strong opinions about this economy — which the market allegedly reflects — for it to daily much longer. Each day those economic factors play a larger role, and the significance of 1,000 points diminishes.

As investors return to the more fundamental considerations, the market is bound to move out of the 1,000-point area, above or below. There is too much active participation for it to simply turn inert.

Russian officials study Ohio patrol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four Russian officials were studying Ohio Highway Patrol equipment today such as the breathalyzer, VASCAR and helicopter and motor vehicle patrol techniques.

Market behaving as predicted

As you read the stock market letters and commentaries you become aware of the divisions of opinion regarding the economy. While the market flirts with 1,000 points, the economic argument continues, and eventually it will be the determining force.

A large number of professional analysts of the market foresee a gradual and undramatic but solid improvement in the economy over the next six months, and for this reason they feel confident about the present level of prices.

There are those who are suspicious too. Some observe that they see elements of a boom mentality among some investors but argue that the economic data to support such an attitude is absent.

Government by statistic, they seem to say, can be misleading. It is true that the numbers are improving, but do the numbers truly represent reality? Do they tend to hide the weaknesses in the economic structure?

It is the economic debate that soon will dominate the stock market, and then we'll see the end of this flirtation with a number, a neat number though it be, and get back to more worthwhile musings.

Cincinnati fluoridation arrives

CINCINNATI (AP) — Barring last-minute court maneuvering today, Cincinnati will become one of the last major cities to fluoridate its drinking water, ending a 25-year legal battle.
City officials said "very minute amounts" of the decay fighting chemical would be added to the water as the first step toward reaching full fluoridation.
Antifluoridationists, however, have indicated they will file an appeal today to block the action. The group, maintaining fluoride causes cancer, won a two-week temporary restraining order Feb. 27, delaying the March 1 target date.

Fluoridation was rejected by Cincinnati voters in 1953, 1960, 1973 and in a charter amendment in 1974.

But the Ohio Supreme Court ruled last Nov. 19 that Cincinnati and Canton must fluoridate their water, upholding

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that a Leesburg woman lost control of her car Saturday on Ohio 41, and slid off the left side of the roadway.

Vicki S. Seymour, 18, of Leesburg, was northbound on Ohio 41-S, when she lost control of the vehicle, at 11 a.m. Saturday, went left of center, slid off the left side of the roadway, and struck a mail box belonging to Rubert D. Lowe of 1102 Ohio 41-S. There was moderate damage to the Seymour car. Mrs. Seymour was not injured.

Meade Noble of 1967 Rockbridge told sheriff's deputies that while his car was parked on Ohio 753, it was struck in the side by a hitskip vehicle at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. There was moderate damage to the Noble vehicle.

Dwaine Upp, 57, of Jeffersonville, told Washington C.H. police officers that as he was motioned out of a parking space by an unidentified vehicle on Fayette Street, just north of Court Street, he was struck at 10:40 a.m. Saturday, by a car driven by Michael L. Hurles, 23, of 1121 E. Paint St. Hurles reportedly pulled around the stopped, unidentified vehicle, and then when he was in the process of getting back into his proper lane, he struck Upp's car. There was slight damage to both Upp's car and Hurles' truck.

Hurles was cited for improper lane changing.

A car parked in the Kroger's parking lot, and belonging to Norman E. Underwood of 923 Clinton Ave., was reportedly struck by a hitskip vehicle at 12:15 p.m. Saturday. There was moderate damage to the front end of Underwood's car.

Florence S. Barchet, 71, of 723

Washington Ave., was in the process of backing from a parking space on South Main Street when she struck a car driven by William A. Vince, 23, of 517 Albin Ave. Vince's car was stopped, waiting to make a left turn onto West Court Street. The 5:03 p.m. Saturday accident resulted in slight damage to Vince's car, and Mrs. Barchet was cited for backing without safety.

Funding of Community Education discussed

The Community Education Advisory Council has set a $1,000 fund-raising goal for the Fayette County Program.

Community education director Hank Shaffer will attempt to reach the proposed goal by soliciting area businesses for donations.

Also at the advisory council's meeting, Kaye Bartlett, Dr. Leroy Davis and Edwin M. Nestor, city school superintendent, agreed to write and submit the federal funding proposal for the local program.

At the council's next meeting, Dr. Tom Hayden, state coordinator of Community Education, and Dr. George Kliminski, director of the center for community education at Kent State University, will be on hand to discuss the local program.

The meeting will attempt to bring into focus the "grey areas" of community education as the federal government sees it and to discuss how the local program fits into the state plan.

A report on the progress of the fundraising drive will be given, a proposed Cincinnati Bengal basketball game to raise funds for the drill team will be discussed, and a community Education promotion plan will be reviewed.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Washington Middle School cafeteria.

Six persons slain; police study clues

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One of two surviving members of the Abt family says he has given police his ideas about the slaying of five members of the family and a friend. A cousin added that they have an idea who was responsible.

Police say the six persons slain were murdered as they separately entered the Abt home in suburban Treviso over the weekend.

"We think we know who may have done it," said Roger King, 26, a cousin of Michael Abt, 20. Michael Abt said he gave police his ideas about the case and predicted "things will become lively" today.

King made his comment Sunday after a meeting between Abt and Bensalem Township police. He declined to elaborate.

Police said it was Michael Abt who discovered the bodies when he arrived home at 8 p.m. Friday after having been out with friends. He ran to a neighbor's house, and they flagged down a passing police car.

Lawrence Michaels, Bensalem Township police chief, said it appears that the Abts were killed one by one as they came home.

The victims were John and Margaret Abt, each 50; their son, John, 13; daughters Margie, 20 and Cathy, 15; and Margie's boyfriend, Garson Engle, 20. Also killed was the family dog, a St. Bernard.

Another Abt son, Clifford, 24, was in Bucks County prison at the time on a contempt charge arising from traffic tickets. He has been moved to the township police station.

"We have no motive, and if I did, I wouldn't tell," Michaels told reporters. He said investigators have some leads, but he would not elaborate.

Police said the killer broke into the home Friday before 3:30 p.m. through a side door. Police have said nothing was taken, ruling out robbery as a motive.

Michael said at least 17 bullets were fired. Each of the six victims was shot once in the head with a small caliber weapon, but no gun was found at the two-story brick colonial home four miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Goldwater to speak at GOP festivities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R Ariz., was to address a $150-a-plate Republican fundraising dinner here tonight.

The 1964 GOP Presidential nominee, currently in his fourth term in the Senate, is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee.

AMID TORNADO DEBRIS — President Gerald Ford points toward spot where roof was blown off Howard Johnson Motor Lodge in Park Ridge, Ill., northwest of Chicago, as he tours tornado damage in Illinois. Tornadoes swept through parts of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan causing severe damage, injuries and deaths. Ford was campaigning for the Illinois primary near the area where some of the tornadoes struck.

Vegas strip darkened

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A union that has closed 12 of 15 strike-bound Las Vegas Strip hotel-casinos says a lockout provision in a management proposal must be eliminated before talks can resume.

A fruitless meeting Sunday between negotiators for the 22,000-member Culinary Workers Union and hotel operators added to the feeling here that the walkout, now four days old, could last a long time.

The clause would permit hotels of the Nevada Resort Association to lock out all union members if one member refused to cross another union's picket line.

"There's no way we can talk about money when that clause is there," said Jeff McCall of the CWU. Forbidding members to observe other unions' picket lines would, one union official said, "make the CWU the leper of Southern Nevada labor."

Meanwhile, the strike by waitresses, bartenders, chefs and other workers left the Strip with vacant parking lots and many of its gaudy neon marquees darkened.

The 15 affected hotels contain about 30 per cent of the city's 35,000 rooms.

The union is seeking a raise of $1.35 an hour. Waiters and waitresses now earn about $2.40 an hour and bartenders $4.50, plus tips.

Though picketing generally has been peaceful, 16 persons were arrested Sunday. Police said that in two incidents picketers blocked access to the Circus Circus and Officer Frank Bruns' nose was broken.

The hotel closings sent many tourists heading for home Sunday but not as many as airlines had been planning for. "We expected it, but it didn't happen," said United Airlines spokesman Dick Rhoades.

Apparently most tourists whose hotels had closed or who were disappointed by the closing of big name shows left gradually after the strike began Thursday. Others appeared to have found lodging at smaller hotels and motels and decided to stick around.

The hotels that shut their doors Sunday were the Thunderbird, Sahara, Tropicana, Flamingo Hilton, Las Vegas Hilton and MGM Grand. Six hotels owned by industrialist Howard Hughes closed at the outset of the strike.

Three of the struck hotels — Caesars Palace, Circus Circus and The Dunes — were still operating with nonunion help.

Rubinstein performance his last?

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Arthur Rubinstein, 89, will play what may be his last New York concert tonight, although he says his eyesight is failing so fast he no longer sees the keyboard.

Julius Bloom, executive director of Carnegie Hall, commented in an interview Sunday, "With his experience, he doesn't have to look at the keyboard often. He has hundreds of pieces stored in his head."

"We've been aware for some time that his vision is getting quite limited. He has only peripheral sight and, if he wants to see the keyboard, he has to lean over, put his head way down."

The news about Rubinstein's eyes became public in an article by New York Times music writer Donal Henahan in the newspaper's magazine this Sunday.

"Naturally, I regret this very much, but what can you do?" Rubinstein was quoted as saying. "I am getting old and these things happen to one at this time. I still will enjoy every day, and keep on playing if I can."

The problem is caused by a hardening of the blood vessels in the eyeball and is not helped by glasses.

Start sealing of ill-fated mine

OVEN FORD, Ky. (AP) — Work crews were to begin sealing a Southeast Kentucky coal mine today in which 26 men died last week in two underground explosions.

The closing could mean the loss of jobs for several hundred miners who worked in the Scotia Coal Company's No. 1 Black Mountain mine and two other mines being shut down for damage checks and monitoring of methane gas levels.

Company officials have said Scotia employs about 500 persons. Approximately 225 of them work in the No. 1 mine.

Federal and state mining officials estimate the mine will be closed for at least two to three months, until the cause of last week's disasters can be determined and the danger of future explosions in the mine is past.

Government, company and union

representatives were to meet today to consider reopening the two other mines which, like the No. 1 mine, are on high coal seams which frequently produce highly volatile methane gas, believed to be the cause of last week's explosions.

Fifteen men were killed last Tuesday when an explosion ripped through the underground complex. A second blast claimed the lives of 11 men Thursday night who had gone back into the mine to investigate the first explosion.

The bodies of the 11 men killed Thursday night are still in the mine.

Bill Cornett, a vice president of Scotia's parent firm, the Blue Diamond Coal Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., said over the weekend that the men who worked in the No. 1 mine will be given jobs at the other two mining operations.

Cornett, however, said some layoffs can be expected.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One of Ronald Reagan's major supporters in the Ohio Legislature admits that the likelihood of a Reagan bid on Ohio June 8 Republican Presidential primary ballot is getting less by the day.

"If they wait another three days, they might as well forget it," Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, said. "There's no way we could get nominating petitions around in time to meet the March 25 filing deadline. We don't have the sophistication to do that."

A spokeswoman at Reagan's national headquarters in Washington said she was unaware of any decision to enter the Ohio race.

Batchelder admitted that Reagan's chances in Ohio are not good.

"People who otherwise would have been available (as Reagan delegates) are slated to Ford and I'm sure will honor that commitment," he said.

The state GOP organization has been committed to Ford for nearly one year and will send its delegates to the national party convention in Kansas City to vote for the President.

Batchelder added that the main quarrel he and other conservatives in the state have with the Ford administration is over foreign policy in general and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in particular.

"If the foreign policy were to be changed, it would end the issue for most conservatives," Batchelder said.

The Medina representative also said the suspension of Howard "Bo" Calloway as President Ford's campaign manager Saturday has the "potential to cause real problems" for the President.

Our America

DUELLING IN AMERICA

by Harold Hower

To settle their quarrel over cards at the Royal Exchange Tavern, Henry Phillips and Benjamin Woodbridge retired to the Boston Commons, where they engaged in a fight with swords.

Taking a vicious thrust through the chest, Woodbridge fell and died late on the night of July 3, 1728, to become the first known fatality of a duel in America.

When the people of Boston discovered what had happened, they were horrified and pressured the governor to act against Phillips, a well-connected young man of 22. Governor Dummer issued a proclamation denouncing the duel as a "barbarous murder" and commanding all law officers to help in bringing Phillips to justice.

A coroner's jury was immediately formed to deliberate upon the event and to hear testimony from Thomas Baker and Robert Handy, the two men who acted as seconds for the duellists. The jury quickly indicted Phillips for murder.

But Phillips had already escaped with the help of influential friends, who took him in the schooner Molly on the night of the murder to the British warship Sheerness, which lay between Castle and Spectacle Islands. Phillips was welcomed aboard the frigate by its master, Captain Conrad, who carried him to safety across the sea.

Phillips eventually made his way to France, but lived there only a short time until he fell ill and died on May 20, 1729.

In resorting to the elaborate ritual of the duel to guard their honor, Phillips and Woodbridge, both prominent and well-to-do merchants, were looking backward to the example of Europe, and particularly of France, where the duel allowed the nobility to jealously guard their positions in a rigid social structure.

Because the duel itself was a step backward in the direction of Old World customs, it is appropriate that Phillips fled to the Old World, with the aid of the British and the French, rather than fleeing westward into the wilderness of the New World. His death after less than a year in exile may be seen to signify the impossibility of America's return to the traditions of Europe.

But while this early duel

looks backward, it also looks forward to a new tradition of violence and death in America.

Writing in 1831, de Toqueville says, "In America one only fights to kill. There are very few duels, but they almost always end fatally." In Europe the satisfaction of one's honor often involved little more than the drawing of a few drops of blood with a sword prick. But in America the duel evolved into the spontaneous shoot-out with nothing more at stake than the dubious supremacy that murder bestows.

Friars advance in NIT

Misecivius spells success

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Misecivius is not the easiest name in the world to pronounce, but it's spelling success for the Providence Friars in the 39th National Invitation Tournament.

The Providence strongman with the tricky name is the main reason his team is in Tuesday night's quarterfinals against Louisville.

"Misecivius is a young player with little experience and he can sometimes keep both teams in the game at the same time," says Providence Coach Dave Gavitt. "He sometimes tries to do too much on offense — but he did what he was told Saturday night."

Misecivius was as tough to handle as his name, scoring 16 of his 20 points in the second half, leading Providence to an 84-68 romp over North Carolina A&T in the opening round.

Three other first-round games were staged at Madison Square Garden, and Kentucky beat Niagara 67-61, North Carolina-Charlotte trimmed the University of San Francisco 79-74 in overtime and Holy Cross turned back St. Peter's 84-77.

The results set up a quarterfinal doubleheader tonight matching North Carolina-Charlotte against Oregon and Holy Cross against North Carolina State. Along with the Providence-

Louisville match Tuesday night, Kentucky will face Kansas State.

Providence and Louisville met earlier in the season and the Friars beat the Cardinals 63-60 with a weapon Gavitt calls the "spread offense." He used it Saturday night against North Carolina A&T, positioning the 6-foot-9, 230-pound Misecivius out past the key instead of under the basket. And the tactic spreadeagled the Aggies, allowing the big center to cash in on several easy, "back-door" baskets.

Gavitt plans to spring it on Louisville again Tuesday night, so it's no secret weapon as far as the Cardinals are concerned.

Kentucky had a tougher time with Niagara in the NIT opener. The Wildcats scuttled the Purple Eagles early with a run-and-gun offense, then had to survive a late Niagara rally.

James Lee led Kentucky with 20 points, while Jack Givens added 16. Niagara was paced by Andy Walker's 18.

Melvin Watkins hit the go ahead field goal with 1:03 in overtime to spur North Carolina-Charlotte past San Francisco in the best game of the opening four. Chris Potter netted 23 points, including seven in a game-breaking stretch, leading Holy Cross past St. Peter's

Sabina basketball tourney continues

SABINA — The Sabina Lions Club basketball tournament will continue tonight with two games slated. At 7 p.m. Porter Hybrids will meet Clinton County National Bank and Harris Auction will take on Superior Carpet at 8:15 p.m. in the Sabina school gym.

Nine games were played over the weekend in the attempt to narrow the 10-team field to two for Friday's finals.

In Saturday's action, Superior Carpet topped Porter Hybrids, 86-72. Jamboree Sporting Goods beat Conchemco, 80-55. Harris Auction breezed by Williams Cardinal, 104-47. Snow Motors topped Sabina Bank, 55-48, and Superior Carpet came back to beat Sabina Farmers Exchange, 128-85.

On Sunday, Jamboree Sporting Goods beat Clinton County National Bank, 89-81; Conchemco nipped Williams Cardinal, 72-68. Porter Hybrids topped Sabina Bank, 86-54, and Conchemco returned to beat Sabina Farmers Exchange, 73-64.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The North-South high school all-star football game again will be played in Ohio Stadium this year, but later in the summer.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association Thursday scheduled the game for the twilight of Friday, Aug. 6. It was played in June last summer.

Tide, Hoosier match to highlight NCAA

HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Quick, Bear Bryant, if you really know how to walk on water now's the time to tell C.M. Newton.

Perhaps taking a cue from Bryant's Alabama footballers, who finally won a postseason contest last season, Newton's eighth-ranked cagers registered the school's first-ever triumph in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament Saturday, knocking off fifth-ranked North Carolina 79-64.

That sends the Crimson Tide on to the next round of the talent-laden Midwest Regionals at Baton Rouge, La., where waiting in the wings is none other than unbeaten, No. 1-ranked Indiana. The Hoosiers walloped No. 17 St. John's 90-70 and led an advance of the top four teams in The Associated Press ratings.

Second-ranked Marquette whipped Western Kentucky 79-60; No. 3 Rutgers, the nation's only other undefeated quintet, had the scare of its life before nipping Princeton 54-53 and fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas buried Boise State 103-78. Sixth-ranked UCLA, the defending NCAA champion, also advanced with a 74-64 victory over San Diego State.

Leon Douglas, a 6-foot-10 center who was the Southeastern Conference's Player of the Year, keyed Alabama's victory over North Carolina with 35 points and 17 rebounds. Now, it's on to Baton Rouge, La., to meet the mighty Hoosiers Thursday night.

"We're playing the best team in the country, without any question," Newton said. "This is a great opportunity for us and a great challenge for us."

The two big upsets of Saturday's opening round came at Charlotte, N.C., where unheralded VMI stunned ninth-ranked Tennessee 81-75 and similarly unranked DePaul turned back No. 13 Virginia 69-60. At Providence, R.I., Rutgers edged Princeton and Connecticut outlasted Hofstra 80-78 in overtime.

Alabama and Marquette won their games at Dayton, Ohio, while Indiana came through at South Bend, Ind., along with No. 16 Western Michigan, a 77-67 winner over Virginia Tech in overtime.

At Lawrence, Kan., seventh-ranked Notre Dame needed the luck of the Irish to nose out No. 15 Cincinnati 79-78 and No. 10 Missouri shaded No. 11 Washington 69-67. Michigan, ranked 14th, squeaked past Wichita State 74-73 at Denton, Te., while No. 19 Texas Tech trounced Syracuse 69-56.

At Tempe, Ariz., No. 18 Arizona downed Georgetown 83-76 and Pepperdine defeated Memphis State 87-77. Nevada-Las Vegas and UCLA won at Eugene, Ore.

The Indiana-Alabama scuffle could turn into a showdown between Douglas and the Hoosiers' Scott May, AP College Player of the Year. May, who was hampered by a broken wrist when Indiana was eliminated in the regional finals of last year's NCAA Tournament, scored 33 points as the Hoosiers pulled away from stubborn St. John's with a 29-10 spurt midway through the second half.

Once-beaten Marquette stretched its winning streak to 22 games with an easy triumph over Western Kentucky behind Butch Lee's 21 points and 18 by Earl Tatum. The Warriors committed only two turnovers en route to a 36-29 halftime lead and blew the Hilltoppers out with a 14-5 burst early in the second half.

Rutgers' perfect record was in jeopardy in the closing seconds but the Scarlet Knights, who led by 10 early in the second half, survived when Princeton's Pete Molloy, a little-used reserve guard, missed the first part of a one-and-one situation with four seconds left.

Nevada-Las Vegas, which averaged 110.8 points a game during the regular season, took a 48-39 halftime lead over Boise and poured it on in the second half. Eddie Owens topped the Rebels with 24 points and Jackie Robinson added 20. UCLA's Richard Washington collected 25 and the Bruins broke open a tight game with San Diego State in the second half after leading by only three at the intermission.

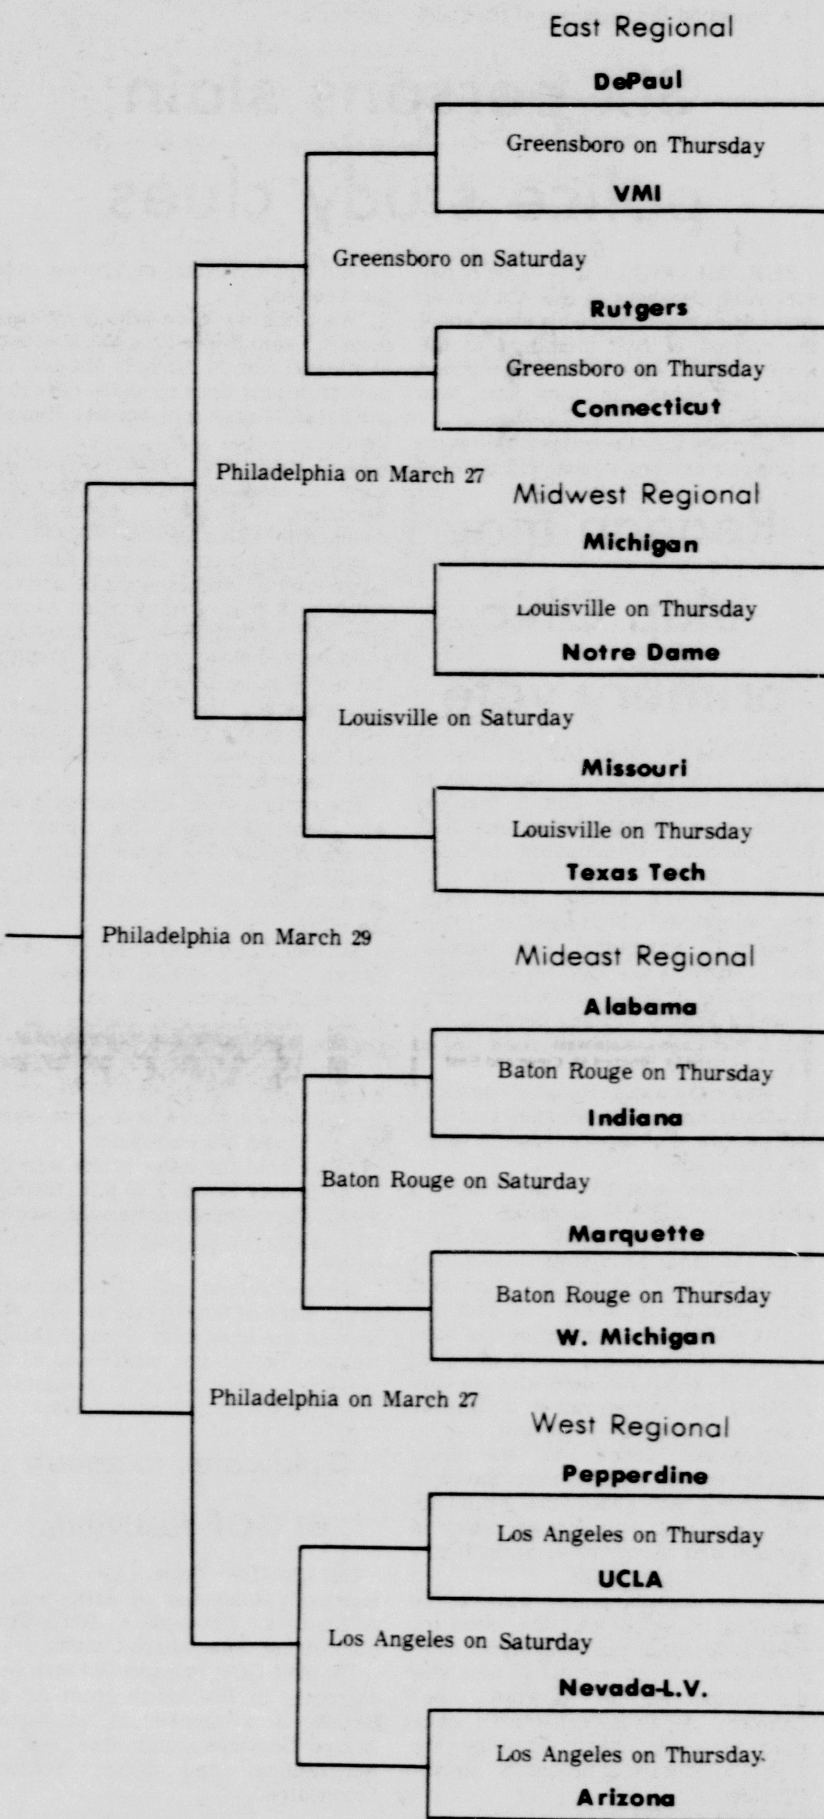

Notre Dame, despite Adrian Dantley's 27 points, trailed Cincinnati most of the way but the Bearcats urned the ball over when they failed to inbound it in the allotted time with eight seconds left and a one-point lead. Notre Dame's Toby Knight then tipped in a missed shot in the final second.

Tennessee, minus Southeastern Conference scoring champ Bernard King, out with a thumb injury, fell to VMI despite Ernie Grunfeld's 36 points. The winners shot a blistering 66 per cent and Will Bynum, Ron Carter and John Krovic combined for 56 points.

Missouri's Jim Kennedy made two free throws and Willie Smith and Scott Sims one apiece in the final minute as the Tigers, behind 36-30 at the half, overtook Washington. DePaul trailed Virginia by five at halftime but Ron Norwood rallied the Blue Demons by scoring 21 of his 28 points in the second half.

Green wins Doral Golf tourney

MIAMI (AP) — Hubert Green describes himself as "just a skinny kid from Birmingham."

But in only five full seasons on the pro golf tour, this skinny kid from Birmingham has won nine American titles, a big money Japanese event and almost $600,000. But that, says Hubert, doesn't make him a great golfer.

"A great golfer, in my mind, is a man who wins the majors — who wins more than one of the majors," Green said. "When I think of great players, I think of Hogan and Snead, men like that."

"I don't wear those kind of shoes." But that's the next step for the lean and lanky man who scored a run-away, six-stroke, record-setting victory Sunday in the Doral Open.

"After you've won nine tournaments, or 15 tournaments, they just become numbers," Green said after his 18-underpar 270 total had set a record for the demanding, 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club and left defending champion Jack Nicklaus and young Mark Hayes struggling in his wake.

"Maybe all players don't do it, but I point for the majors," Green said. "I hope to win one someday. That's the next step toward becoming a really good player."

Green, at 29 one of the leading characters in the cast of young men who rapidly are claiming the tour for their own, had been in a slump since winning the Dunlop Phoenix tournament in Japan last November.

But he staked himself to a five-stroke lead through three rounds of this event, faltered briefly in the final round, but came home a big winner with a front-running, three-under-par 69. He clinched it with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 14th that put him five in front with four to play.

Hayes, a quiet young man from Oklahoma who now has mounted three unsuccessful challenges in as many weeks, three-putted the final hole for a bogey that dropped him back into a tie for second with Nicklaus. Each had a 276 total. Nicklaus, who had difficulties with the par five holes, shot a 68 that wasn't good enough to get him in the chase. Hayes had a closing 71.

while negotiations continue between club owners and the Players Association over a new labor contract.

"I can't offer you a hard date, whether it is Monday or Tuesday, but we will have baseball and on time," Kuhn said Sunday in a surprise appearance at the hotel where negotiations are taking place.

Despite Kuhn's optimism, the negotiators issued dour reports at the end of the 29th negotiating session.

"We're a long way from having the key to the padlock," said John Gaherin, the chief negotiator for the owners.

"There is no drastic change at all," said Gaherin. "We're still confronted with the same problems at the same dimensions."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, agreed with Gaherin. Miller indicated, however, that the owners were stonewalling until a specific time, and then would break the impasse.

A management source told The Associated Press that the owners' deadline was Monday, probably before nightfall. That would open the camps Tuesday and give teams three weeks to get ready for the April 8 openers.

Kuhn was asked about the Monday deadline and replied: "I hope so ... But there is a difference of opinion among owners on how much time is needed for preparations."

The commissioner has the power to open the camps for the best interest of baseball. The league presidents, Chub Feeney of the National and Lee Macphail of the American, also could issue the order if they felt enough progress was being made at the negotiating table.

The thorny problem of the reserve clause still confronted the negotiators. The owners want a player tied to a club — unless traded, sold or released — for nine years. The Players Association is willing to settle for a six-year reserve clause. The players, under an arbitrator's decision subsequently upheld by two federal courts, legally could become free agents in two years under the controversial one-and-one option ruling.

Kuhn, however, took the play away from the tense negotiating scene. Casually attired in a yellow spot shirt and red sweater, he indicated that he came to Florida to help break the impasse.

"When I think opening the camps will help bargaining, I will open them," he declared. "I don't think that anyone takes seriously the thought that there will be no baseball."

Gaherin, his Management Players Relation Committee, Miller and nine players worked at the problem for 7½ hours Sunday. Included among the players present were Tom Seaver, the pitching ace of the New York Mets; Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Willie Stargell; Lou Brock and Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals, and catcher Bob Boone of the Philadelphia Phillies.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Why did I move to Florida?" Mickey Rooney muses. "Let's just say that I like having friends, and friendliness is sparse around here."

Actor, philosopher, husband, Rooney was back in his onetime home town, but only briefly. He was on the New York street at Paramount studios, taping a skit for an April 5 CBS special, "Dick Cavett's Backlot USA."

Rooney and a bunch of kids were repeating lines from his 1938 classic "Boy's Town," and it might have been cause for reminiscence. But the Mick resolutely refuses to live in the past.

"I'm more interested in what's going on now, today," he said, "and believe me, a lot is happening with me." He rattled off some of his activities.

1. Six months a year he appears in comedies at the Drury Lane Theaters in Chicago. He also tours summer theaters in "Sugar" and other shows.
2. He is starting a string of "Talent Town USA" schools to train youngsters to perform. "There's no place to develop talent in young people, the way the Meglin Kiddies did for Judy (Garland) and other stars."

3. He has helped form the Chicago Picture Corp., "with $12 million worth of screenplays ready for the right casting." Among them: a Dutch Schultz story "that is a natural for Gene Hackman."

4. He is scheduled for a role in Stanley Kramer's "The Domino Principle."

5. He is writing TV commercials, a novel, "The Broken Hearts," and "Mickey Rooney's Guide to Happy Marriage." He has had seven — at least they were happy for a while. When asked if he is married now, he looks at his watch and says, "Let's see, what time is it?"

His Andy Hardy exuberance hasn't diminished with his years (55). His home now is Fort Lauderdale, Fla., when he isn't traveling the country. He elaborated on his reasons for the move:

"Actors were not very friendly with each other in the old days. I think maybe the agents tried to keep them apart, so they could maintain their control of actors."

"I don't think much of the men who are running the industry today, and that's why I left town. Why sit around waiting? They don't know what to do with a bald-headed guy of 50. So they concentrate on just a few actors and now they've got only 12 'bankable' stars (whose names can secure loans)."

"The industry has lost its creative heart. Nobody is taking the time to develop talent. The heads of the studios are too busy throwing dinners for each other."

Nobody ever gave Mickey Rooney a testimonial dinner, "They kicked me out of the clubhouse," said the actor, who was the no. 1 box-office star from 1938-1940. He's not bitter, just realistic.

"I manage Mickey Rooney now," he said. "I've made more money in the past five years than ever before in my career."

But he added: "There's something wrong with the way the film industry treats actors. A pro football star plays 15 years and retires at $1,500 a month for life. A movie star works 15 years and what does he get? A room at the Motion Picture Country House."

'Lantern' sued by rental agent

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A rental agent leasing apartments in the Ohio State University area is suing the university newspaper, "The Lantern," for $860,000, the paper said.

Charles W. O'Brien claims results of the newspaper's investigation into university area housing, published Thursday, caused him "harassment, public embarrassment, mental distress and financial injury."

The Lantern replied it based its report on Commerce Department records, court records and sworn statements from O'Brien's tenants.

only $16 MILLION.

That was quite a deal. Even in 1848.
Only problem was: how would you raise $16 million?
Well, thanks to people taking stock in America, that problem was no problem. The government simply offered 20-year, six-percent Treasury Notes to the public.
The response was overwhelming.
Well, today's U.S. Savings Bonds are even more attractive. A full 6% at only 5 years' maturity.
So join in America's Bicentennial Celebration by buying U.S. Savings Bonds where you work or bank.
It's a better deal than ever.

New U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted with redemption.

Reds win French vote

PARIS (AP) — For the second weekend in a row, the Socialist-Communist alliance got more than 50 per cent of the vote in a nationwide French election.

Government spokesmen acknowledged the results of the two rounds of voting for 94 regional councils was a setback for President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's forces. But they contended local issues were of primary interest to the voters and that the outcome was not necessarily an indication of what would happen in the 1978 parliamentary elections.

The leftists claimed the vote was a true sign of national feeling.

Results from 1,775 of the 1,863 districts gave the leftist alliance 905 seats on the regional councils and the government coalition 870. A number of the districts still to be heard from usually vote Communist.

The figures included races decided March 7 in the first round of voting for the councils, which deal mainly with such matters as county budgets and public works.

Sheriff receives report of tire, mini-bike thefts

Both the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department investigated numerous crime reports over the week-end.

John C. Lamon of Birmingham Ala., told sheriff's deputies that while his truck was in Garner's Union 76 parking lot between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m., Sunday, two tires and wheels valued at $250 were taken from a storage rack under the tractor-trailer. A padlock had been cut to help gain entry to the articles.

A mini-bike valued at $150 was reported stolen from the rear of the Clark W. Leeth residence, 5007 CCC-Highway-W. The object was stolen sometime between the hours of 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Leeth told sheriff's deputies.

Danny L. Merritt, 19, of Jeffersonville, was in the Jeffersonville Royal Blue Market Sunday when he was reportedly seen concealing a package of 79-cent cookies, and leave the store without paying for them. He was held by store officials and later arrested for shoplifting by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Mary Souther, aged 8, of Bloomingburg, was bitten by a dog near her residence at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Jack Alkire of 3821 Ohio 753 SE, told sheriff's deputies that sometime between Feb. 28 and March 7, a stormdoor window was broken, possibly by the wind.

A spare tire and wheel valued at $50 were reportedly taken from the bed of a pick-up truck belonging to Richard L. Dennis of Sabina. The truck was parked in the Pennington Bakery parking lot between 4:30 a.m. and 8:15 a.m. Sunday.

Carolyn A. Wilson, 34, of 217 1/2 East St., told police officers that while she was away from her residence between 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday, a clock radio and canned goods valued at $30 were taken from her home.

Harold J. McNeil, 39, of 518 Earl Ave., told police officers that a subject came to his door at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, asked questions about a neighbor's car, and when McNeil referred him to the neighbor, the subject kicked in the front door, causing $15 worth of damage.

Danny Manning, 20, of 803 Brodding St. was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital at 10:52 Saturday for a reported overdosing of aspirin and nerve pills, and was later released.

Helen Wilcox, aged 7, of 815 S. North St., was reported to have approached a stray dog near her residence, and was subsequently bitten in the right hand at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, treated and released.

Cool, dry weather was forecast for Ohio today. A ridge of high pressure moving from the upper Mississippi Valley across the lower Great Lakes was to bring cool temperatures and mostly sunny skies to the Buckeye State with highs in the 40s.

A new storm developing along the Gulf coast will bring an end to the fair weather pattern tonight.

The National Weather Service says this new storm will intensify and move rapidly northeastward. While the heaviest precipitation will be over the mountains of West Virginia and Maryland, some light snow is likely over southern Ohio tonight with a chance of snow to the north.

Snow is likely over the whole state Tuesday, possibly changing to rain in the extreme south. No rain or snow fell over the state last night and temperatures were mostly in the 30s.

Engineers to begin house poll

The engineers for the city sewer project will begin a house-to-house survey of Washington C.H. homes late this week or early next week.

Jerry Turner of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Worthington, said the survey will take several weeks to complete.

The engineers are seeking to determine the lay of sewer lines from each home. These may connect to trunk lines in the front, rear, or side of each residence.

Turner said the owners of the homes will be asked to tell the firm where the sanitary lines from their home connect with the main lines. If the resident does not know the course of his sewer lines, the engineers will request permission to enter the home.

Turner said that if the house has a basement, it would be easy to determine the direction of the sanitary lines. Other homes usually have a crawl-space which yields access to the sewer pipes.

In some cases where two or more trunk lines are possible outlets for the home sewage, the firm may request permission to dye-test the sewer. Turner said this is done by pouring a colored dye into the toilet and monitoring its flow in the main lines.

Residents will also be asked whether or not their home is prone to flooding during heavy rains.

The efforts by the engineers to determine the layout of such lines are a vital part of the second phase of the sewer project. After the city's sewer network has been accurately diagrammed, the engineers can pinpoint which lines need to be rerouted in the new system.

Each member of the survey team will carry identification from the engineering firm.

The entire second phase of the project is expected to take 18 months, the first four months of which will be field work such as the survey.

Once detailed plans for the project have been completed, the construction of the new treatment plant and installation of new sanitary sewer lines can be let for bids.

The estimated cost of the project is $23.6 million.

Ohioans open trips to capital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Delegations of Ohio municipal officials and Ohio Farm Bureau Federation county leaders will converge on Washington this week but for different purposes.

At least 50 Ohio officials, headed by Toledo Mayor Harry Kessler, will attend the Congressional-City Conference sponsored by the National League of Cities and U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Kessler said the municipal leaders will press Congress for reenactment of Federal Revenue Sharing.

Unless Congress acts, the five year revenue sharing program will end Dec. 31, 1976, the Ohio Municipal League said, forcing Ohio to choose between either higher non-federal taxes or reductions in state and local services.

The county farm bureau leaders said they would engage in a "little old-fashioned voter relations" with their congressmen. The trip also includes a visit with President Gerald Ford at the White House on Tuesday, the federation said.

C. William Swank, OBFA executive vice president, said the farmers are expected to seek congressional support in opposing any future grain export embargo similar to 1975's ban on exports to the Soviet Union.

About 86 county presidents are expected to make the trip.

Both groups are expected to meet with members of Ohio's congressional delegation during their stay in Washington.
